Simultaneously, the house voted out three charges of impeachment against Harry B. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture. Impeachment charges were also voted against Chief Justice Fred Branson of the state supreme court. The charge against him was announced as "corruption in office."

Enlargement Of Hearst-Mexican Probe Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A resolution proposing a complete senate inquiry into allegedly forged Mexican government documents published in Hearst newspapers was introduced in the senate today by Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, Missouri.

Reed's resolution suggested that the special committee which will begin hearings Thursday concerning one published document alleging that $1,200,000 was ordered paid for U. S. senators for Mexican propaganda should have its powers enlarged to include all the published documents.

"If these documents are genuine, the senate should know about it and if they are not, the papers which published them have accepted a very grave responsibility," Reed of Missouri said.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Walsh bill to change the statute of limitations from six years to three years was passed unanimously by the senate today and sent to the house.

While it would affect all legal cases, it was designed particularly to require testimony from M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of former Secretary of Interior Fall, who declined to give evidence in the Fall-Sinclair oil trial on the ground it would incriminate him.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Henry Mason Day, lieutenant of Harry F. Sinclair, personally looked up ownership and sought information regarding incumbrances on a Fall-Sinclair juror's home, it was testified in the Sinclair-Burns contempt trial today.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Instead of making fervid love to a 17-year-old movie extra under a Southern California moon, as charged in a $100,000 breach of promise suit, Harry K. Thaw, fancier of feminine charms, was "somewhere" in Philadelphia, he declared here today.

In answer to the complaint filed by Forest Hope Wall, charging that Thaw proposed marriage at Laguna Beach in 1923, the Pittsburgh millionaire said he had never heard of that famous resort and made an uncertain guess that he was in the east at that time.

Thaw was greatly amused over the girl's description of a trip made to the millionaire's summer home in Stephenson, Va., in 1926. Miss Wall, who filed the complaint through her mother, avers that she underwent hardship and finally humiliation at the hands of Thaw's employees, in making the trip east in answer to Thaw's alleged summons.

"That trip in a broken down flivver is funny to me," declared the gray-haired Lothario, who arrived in Hollywood recently in company with his two potential movie queens, Susan Hughes and Anita Rivers. "I always have wondered how they did it."

Although Miss Wall charges in the complaint that she met the middle aged millionaire at Laguna, while she was working with a movie company there, and that they strolled on the moonlit beach while he made tender love, Thaw declares that he never "had the pleasure of meeting" the girl.

While she has suffered "disillusionment, grief, embarrassment, nervous shock and grievous mental suffering," for which she asks $100,000, she still is willing to marry Thaw, the complaint avers.

Thaw admitted that he had corresponded with Miss Wall. She charges in the complaint that he wrote protestations of love and from time to time sent her money, amounting in all to approximately $500, but the millionaire eccentric answers that by saying that he "writes lots of letters." He also admitted that he sent her $20 after receiving one of her pictures.

Thaw dismisses the entire affair by declaring that it is a "cheap publicity stunt."

Among the letters on file in the case, which the girl charges Thaw wrote to her, is one which reads in part:

"You wrote me that you have never kissed any man, or was it really never, or almost never? Of course, if you did so, you did it politely, not the least like you wish to kiss me now."

CANTON, O., Dec. 13.—Former Police Chief S. A. Lengel, convicted of the murder of Don Mellett, crusading editor of the Canton Daily News, was liberated under $25,000 bond today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—President Coolidge has not approved a naval building program and reports published today that the government plans to spend more than a billion dollars on such a plan are not substantially correct, it was said at the White House today.

A naval program contemplating additional cruisers, submarines and other craft is being studied by the navy department, but no definite conclusion has been reached, it was said.

The president conferred today with Admiral Jones and other naval officers regarding plans and discussed with them the recent naval conference at Geneva. Details of the conversation were not disclosed.

Probe of Lexington and Saratoga Costs Asked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Investigation of the building cost of two aircraft carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, by special house committee, is asked in a resolution introduced today by Representative McClintic, Democrat, Oklahoma, member of the house naval affairs committee.

Pointing out the authorization cost has jumped from $23,000,000 in 1919 to $40,000,000 this year, McClintic proposed that the committee investigate all money paid out by the two concerns building them, the Fore River plant, of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, at Quincy, Mass., and the New York Shipbuilding corporation, at Trenton, N. J.

LAND SLIDES HOLD UP TRAIN TRAFFIC

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Dec. 13.—Land slides, 15 miles south of Surf in Santa Barbara county, the center of heavy earth tremors recently, caused all north and south bound rail traffic on the coast route to be halted today.

The railroad tracks at Jolama station, where severe earthquakes were reported several weeks ago, have been carried into the sea by huge land slides, according to reports received here and all trains have been stopped while repairs are being rushed.

Four south bound Southern Pacific trains are being held in the yards here and are now nine hours late. It is expected that they will be more than 15 hours off schedule when they reach Los Angeles.

Northbound trains are being held below Jolama.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The senate primary investigation committee asked Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, Republican, Illinois, in a telegram today when he wanted to appear before "the fair trial" of his campaign expenditures case.

The telegram was sent because Smith left for home with the apparent intention of ignoring the committee following action of the senate in denying him the oath of office.

The telegram was sent by Chairman James A. Reed, Democrat, Missouri, after he had been authorized to take that action by the committee in a two-hour executive session. It stated:

SECRECY KEPT ABOUT JULIAN REINDICTMENTS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—The reindictment of 41 men in connection with the collapse of the Julian Petroleum corporation was without explanation here today, as the grand jury and District Attorney Keyes adhered to a policy of silence.

Three indictments, said to charge conspiracy to violate the state usury act and to name the same men who were indicted six months ago for their Julian pool transactions, were voted late yesterday after the grand jurors had argued for hours.

Included in the indictments, according to reports at the hall of justice, are the names of 10 men, cited in the original indictments, but who later were exonerated after the district attorney's office represented to the courts that the defendants were innocent of any crime and should not be prosecuted.

The new indictments were returned before Judge Carlos Hardy, who ordered the defendants to appear before him Thursday to fix bail. It is reported that the bonds posted by the defendants after the return of the first indictments will be permitted to stand.

District Attorney Keyes announced a week ago that the indictment of the 10 men who were freed of responsibility, after making restitution of alleged usurious interest, was being considered. He gave no explanation, however, and it was reported that the Julian receivers were opposed to the move.

C. C. JULIAN WINS MINE DEAL ACTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—Jack P. Van, San Francisco broker, today lost his $200,000 suit against C. C. Julian, Los Angeles oil man, in a decision by Judge John J. Van Nostrand in superior court.

Judge Van Nostrand ruled that Van was not entitled to $200,000 commission for his claim of purchasing the Monte Cristo silver mine in Arizona for Julian, in 1924.

Van asserted in the trial that he posed as a "Dutch" baron and swung the $3,000,000 mine deal in Arizona. Julian denied Van completed the deal.

BROCK AND SCHLEE TO HOP TOMORROW

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 13.—Weather permitting, Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock will take off in the "Friede of Detroit" at dawn tomorrow in an effort to break the world's record for an endurance flight, they announced today.

The Wright whirlwind motor of the monoplane has been given a final inspection, Brock said, and a trial flight yesterday proved the ship able to take off from the beach here with a load approximating 6000 pounds.

tomorrow. He faced headwinds and possible showers most of the way, but despite this hoped for a speed of between 80 and 95 miles an hour.

He planned to fly over no large expanse of water enroute, but pointed out that the cushions of his plane could float if he fell crossing a river. He had no life preserver and carried no parachute. He had a week's rations of hard bread, soup tablets and chocolates and two quarts of water. He carried a rifle to shoot game if forced down on the desert.

Besides his flying kit over his regular suit, he wore moccasins to shield him from the cold.

Nonchalant at Start
Lindbergh set off on his 2000-mile proposed non-stop flight with as much nonchalance as he had shown when he jumped off for Paris from New York.

Only about an hour and a half before taking off he notified the war department to advise the press of his impending flight. Meantime he got his motor tuned up and while army officers whispered that the field was terrible for such a heavy load as he carried, he had the machine dragged on to the field and started off.

In taking off he taxied down the field slowly, appearing to hesitate. He drove his plane squarely between the white flags which he had set up a short time before and avoided the dangerous puddles which might have brought disaster at the start.

When his wheels left the ground, it was not with the customary Lindbergh style. He was apparently taking no chances with the heavy load and bad ground.

Beissel, W. Roy George and J. A. George, who have owned it for several months. The purchase price was said to have been $65,000 cash.

Blakeman, who for 15 years has operated a pool hall, the Alexander, on North Main street, will take possession immediately, and will move his billiard parlors to the new location about February 1, it was said.

Three stores are affected by the sale, the O'Donnell Millinery Store, F. H. Rice and Sons, shoe store, and the Hugh Trathier Feed Store, on Birch street, at the rear of the millinery store.

The Tiernan Typewriter company, now located at 317½ West Fourth street, has signed a lease for the corner store, now occupied by the O'Donnell store, and will take possession on January 1.

The city council last night granted Blakeman a special permit to operate his billiard hall at the place where the shoe store is now located and it is presumed he will move in as soon as the Rice lease expires, which is said to be February 1, 1928.

The property came into the possession of its late owners in May, 1926.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—"Scarface Al" Capone, beer baron, whose name has become symbolic with machine guns, bombs and sundry death dealing apparatus, is resting in Los Angeles.

Chicago's most colorful figure, the man who rules gangland in the mid-western city, arrived here yesterday "for a rest" and while the police do not look upon his visit with enthusiasm they are not molesting him.

Capone, upon arriving here, declared he was "just seeing the sights." Two men are with him, as traditional "bodyguards," although he denies they accompanied him for protection.

"This is just a pleasure trip and I'm just a peaceful tourist," Capone declared.

Jury Disagrees In Elephant Hunting Action

REDLANDS, Calif., Dec. 13.—Elephant hunting in California and its status as a pastime is to be argued a second time here Friday.

Last night a jury trying Ben McFarland, a Colton restaurant man, on a charge of cruelty to animals disagreed as to whether McFarland was cruel or acting as a benefactor of the community last week when he shot "Texas," a 9100-pound elephant of "Honest Bill" circus.

McFarland declared "Tex" was on a rampage and in a dangerous mood, but circus men testified the beast could have been handled with ease.

SMITH AWAITS GOOD WEATHER FOR HOP

OAKLAND AIRPORT, Oakland, Calif., Dec. 13.—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and Lt. George Pond waited for favorable winds today to take off on another attempt to break the endurance flight record with the Fokker monoplane "Spirit of California."

The plane was brought here late yesterday from Mills field, in South San Francisco, where three unsuccessful attempts started.

The two aviators hoped for better weather here than on the west side of San Francisco bay, but unfavorable winds were blowing this morning.

BISHOP BURNS GIVES ADDRESS IN FULLERTON

A return to the "old time evangelistic and revival spirit of religion of three decades ago," was urged here last night by Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of San Francisco, a leading Methodist of the west before a large group of Fullerton churchmen.

"Is the church to become an ethical club?" Bishop Burns asked his audience at the start of his address and proceeded to develop his theory that a return to the fundamental principles of the "old church" was a crying modern need.

"The public has come to expect ministers to be the 'back horses' of the community rather than the prophets of God," he declared. "People look to them to be 'hale fellows well met' instead of salesmen for the gospel."

Unless there is greater development of more spiritual feelings there is a definite danger to be faced, Bishop Burns asserted.

LAGUNA WATER IS GIVEN PRAISE

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 13.—That the water supply of Laguna Beach is absolutely pure was shown in a letter from Chief Sanitary Officer W. W. Chandler to Joseph R. Jahraus, of the Laguna Beach county water district, in which was enclosed the report of Dr. A. L. Thompson, bacteriologist. Reports are made at the initiation of the board from time to time, and the recent one made from samples of water taken from five places in the system under directions required by the state health department showed the superiority of the water. In his letter, Chandler comments: "You will see by the analysis that it would be hard to get water any better."

The eighth birthday of Marjorie Earley was fittingly celebrated with a birthday party at her home last week, when her mother invited eight other schoolmates to her home to spend the afternoon in games.

The chicken dinner given Friday evening by the Dorcas society of the Baptist church was well attended and climaxed a very successful afternoon financially and socially to the Christmas bazaar held during the afternoon. A program was enjoyed during the evening.

CONSIDERATION OF DEFICIENCY BILL IS BEGUN

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The mills of congress began today really to grind out grist in both houses.

While the house had plodded along with the legislative business for several days, the senate, still unorganized, has until now accomplished virtually nothing except to prevent the seating of Senators-elect Vare and Smith.

But today the senate began considering the deficiency appropriation—one of the essential, though unromantic, phases of the nation's business as done by congress. It had been hurried out of appropriations committee in record time so the senate could have something to do besides twirl its thumbs and talk over its Vares-Smith troubles and the intricacies of getting at the truth of the Hearst-Mexican expose.

To Ratify States
The upper house planned during the day to ratify the states of Republican and Democratic assignment, after which its machinery will be geared to go on with the multitude of measures which committees must debate, dissect and rehash before the senate can vote on them.

The Reed (Missouri) committee was called to plan trials for Smith and Vare, accused of excessive election expenditures, but it was rather disconcerted at the thought that both senators so far have shown no inclination to avail themselves of the committee's investigating facilities.

The Reed (Pennsylvania) committee, charged with investigating the Hearst documents, alleging a Mexican plan to bribe four U. S. senators, meets Thursday.

Underground Activity
Meantime, there is much underground activity aimed at side tracking a subpoena issued for Consul General Filas, of New York, and thereby keeping improved Mexican-American relations from a new flurry. The Mexicans say they will be glad to let the committee know all they know about the Hearst documents—which they claim are forged—but they insist their evidence shall be on invitation not on summons.

On the house side, consideration of the tax reduction measure continued. The Democrats won an initial victory yesterday afternoon when they got a vote in favor of further reduction of taxes of small corporations.

ning and included a playlet written by Mrs. Roy Kelly, chairman of the program committee and entitled "Gossip."

Henry Barnbrook, representative of the Pacific Palisades, was the speaker at the recent meeting of the Men's Brotherhood. He showed several slides. Officers will be elected at the next meeting. The nominating committee comprises F. W. Taylor, E. E. Proud and L. Stearns.

S. A. SYMPHONY WILL FEATURE HAYDN'S WORK

By RUTH ANDREWS

When the Santa Ana Philharmonic society offers the initial program of its winter series of concerts Thursday in Santa Ana high school auditorium at 8 p. m. one of the interesting features of the evening will be the presentation of the well-known "Military Symphony" by Franz Joseph Haydn, according to Director D. C. Clanton.

Haydn, who by virtue of his many masterpieces, now ranks with the immortal composers of the classic period, was born March 31, 1732, in Rohrau, Austria, of humble parentage. Inheriting his love of music from his father, his talent showed itself at an early age. Although as a youth he suffered much privation and poverty, no obstacle could daunt his bright jovial nature, which easily won for him hosts of friends. His diligence and industry as an organist and music conductor during his early manhood were bound to win recognition for him.

In 1759, Haydn wrote his first symphony, later being known as the "Father of the Symphony." Being appointed director of the Court Orchestra in 1761 by Prince Esterhazy, he remained in this employ till 1790, and during this period produced 63 symphonies, 40 quartets, 28 sonatas, and 47 trios, in addition to many lesser works.

Visiting London in 1790, Haydn's instrumental works caused great enthusiasm, and he returned to Germany laden with honors. In 1797 he composed "The Creation," and later his famous choral work "The Seasons." His death occurred May 31, 1809.

Haydn is an excellent illustration of native genius which inevitably finds recognition without seeking it. In spite of poverty and humble station in life during youth, he achieved widespread and enduring fame through his own merits.

The chief characteristics which mark Haydn's many musical compositions are cheerfulness, spontaneity, and a refreshing quality of naturalness. His music is melodious and jolly simple and unaffected, possessing a wholesome, freshness, and vigorous optimism expressive of the character of its creator.

Straight Roads Held Dangerous

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 13.— "Dead man's curve," and other such nicknames for sections of highways may be fitting but evidence gathered by the Washington state highway patrol indicates that it's the straight stretches which are dangerous.

It was discovered that nicknames given to curves, generally, are not deserved.

The patrolman devised a map of the highway and placed a colored pin at the point where an accident occurred. The straightaways bulge with these pins now while the curves are marked by very few of them.

ADS IN PAPERS OF EAST BRING MANY QUERIES

Santa Ana is getting excellent results from advertisements inserted in eastern papers by the chamber of commerce. It was revealed today by George A. Raymer, in submitting to E. B. Collier, city manager, a memorandum of letters received from various states in direct response to advertising inserted in daily and weekly papers.

The campaign is being financed by the advertising fund of the city, and it was for this reason that Raymer submitted a report to the city manager.

The report shows that 384 answers were received from advertisements inserted in three papers in Canada. Twelve papers have been used in Illinois, from which 460 letters of inquiry have been received, while 231 responses were received from insertions in six publications in Wisconsin. Nine papers have been used in Nebraska and 128 letters have been received. In Kansas, eight publications were employed and 141 answers have been recorded. In Minnesota, nine papers carried small advertisement, and letters received by the chamber number 170.

JUDGE ALLEN SUMMONED TO AMES' COURT

Superior Judge James L. Allen today played a new role when he was cited by Superior Judge Homer C. Ames to appear and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for alleged failure to pay a judgment as trustee for the Pacific corporation, for which a receiver was appointed three years ago.

David Fulwider and A. J. Charles, two other trustees, also were ordered to appear on the same basis. The three men are asserted to have refused to pay several thousand dollars to George Cunningham, who claims to have been a stockholder in the corporation, and to be entitled to receive part of a $180,000 judgment rendered by Judge R. Y. Williams against Louis Kleinfeldt, and E. F. Parrott, former managers of the company. They were charged with having misappropriated funds of the concern.

S. N. Davis, attorney for Judge Allen, has pointed out that Cunningham was not one of the plaintiffs in the suit for $180,000, and therefore he is not entitled to participate in the money.

Ben Tarver, receiver of the company, is alleged to have refused to make an accounting of the financial condition of the affair and his possible testimony, which is said to have an important bearing on the matter, was one phase of the case which is being watched with interest.

It is claimed that he has received over $30,000 through his position as receiver and that in all, he has handled over $100,000 in this capacity.

Superior Judge G. W. Freeman, of Riverside, was presiding in Judge Ames' place today. Davis opened the argument with a motion to quash, on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction when it issued the order in the original hearing, as a result of which the $180,000 judgment was handed down.

Ben Gray, of Los Angeles, attorney for the receiver, and also for Cunningham, contested the motion rather hotly when the case opened this morning.

The $180,000 judgment was one of the largest ever handed down in an Orange county court and many local ranchers are among the stockholders of the Pacific corporation who are entitled to receive portions of the money.

The case arose originally when A. J. Charles brought suit against the corporation and its two former managers, charging that they had misused the company funds. He was acting for 150 other persons interested in the affair. The company controlled oil interests at Signal Hill.

Police News

Charged with being drunk, Jack Duncan, Santa Ana, was fined $25 and C. McGowan, Santa Ana, was given a $10 fine in Judge J. F. Talbot's court yesterday.

A. Tapple, charged with vagrancy was fined $10 in police court yesterday and John Chorok, arrested on a similar charge, was given a 30 day suspended jail sentence.

Percy Hall, 23, was arrested at Fourth and Spurgeon streets yesterday afternoon for being drunk. Officers Earl Lentz and C. W. Adams lodged him in the county jail.

Walter Wright, Santa Ana, reported to police at 11:45 p. m. yesterday that as he was driving his machine near Fourth and Bristol streets, two men attempted to climb into the machine. He speeded up and they were not successful. Officers Hershey and Wolford searched the vicinity of Fourth and Birch streets for the men, but found no trace of them.

Court Notes

Granted Divorce
Suspicious looking smudges on her husband's shoulders and powder puffs found in his pockets, according to Mrs. Reba M. Nichols, led her to believe that his asserted stories of fraternizing with other women were true. She discovered that he was finding entertainment three times a week with his girl friends, she said. She had been awarded a divorce today from I. M. Nichols, with custody of their child and $30 a month for its support.

Given Judgment
Carrie L. Wilson had been awarded judgment for $5000 today against Margaret E. Closshey as a result of the foreclosure of a mortgage securing a promissory note.

Damages Sought
A clear title to a Stanton ranch with $6000 damages was granted in the superior court to William Pickering in a case against Russell Evans, which had been decided today. Pickering said that Evans had claimed an interest in the property through an attachment.

Decree Granted
"I am quitting. I am going home to the folks." This is the ultimatum which Otto Puchert, of Anaheim, says his wife, Gladness Puchert, gave him last June when they separated. Today he has an interlocutory decree of divorce from her. Apparently he doesn't think he is going to miss much, for he stated in his complaint that she seldom cooked his meals, spending most of her time reading magazines.

Damage Suit
Charles W. Sheely has filed a $512.50 damage suit against O. C. Olds, in which he alleges that the latter is responsible for an automobile accident in which he was hurt near La Habra last June.

Asks Divorce
Lucille E. Robinson has filed a divorce complaint against Thorwald W. Robinson, alleging that he deserted her last September. They were married in 1913.

Files Suit
The First National bank of Brea, today filed a suit against J. H. Bailey to recover $2950 alleged to be due on a promissory note. The plaintiff asks $350 attorney fees.

H. B. OIL FIRE BURNS 6 HOURS THIS MORNING

A fire which endangered the entire Huntington Beach oil field blazed for six hours at the beach city this morning, after gas from the F. E. Andrews well at Eleventh street between Walnut and Ocean avenues ignited.

No one was burned in the blaze, which destroyed two derricks and damaged four others, the property loss being estimated at $25,000.

The fire started while the Andrews well, which is owned by J. F. Garlepp, was bailing sand. The bailer struck a gas pocket, the gas igniting from a nearby boiler. The resultant explosion was heard throughout Huntington Beach and a number of persons were thrown from their beds, according to reports.

The explosion occurred at 1 a. m. and within a few minutes the Andrews derrick became ashes and twisted machinery. The Huston No. 1, the Wilcox well and two others in the vicinity were partially destroyed and the No. 1 well of the Pacific Coast Oil company was completely burned.

That the blaze did not spread throughout the entire field is attributed to lack of a wind and the efforts of the Huntington Beach fire department.

The loss was partially covered by insurance. Steps will be taken this week to restore the ruined oil well derricks and equipment.

The fire attracted several thousand persons and reports were in circulation that the entire city was on fire.

EXPECT 45,000 TO QUALIFY TO VOTE

That there will be 45,000 registered voters in Orange county at the coming elections was the opinion voiced today by J. M. Backs, county clerk, when he announced the beginning of new registration on January 1.

At the elections two years ago there were 41,726 registered electors, he recalled. If his predictions are correct, there will be an increase of over 3000 at the coming primaries.

Registration and transfers for the May 1 primary will close March 31, for the August primary they will close July 23, while for the general election of November 6, registration will close on October 6, Backs declared.

Starts Action
William B. Oldham today filed an action in the superior court for the recovery of judgment of $475 from Augustus E. Romero, on a promissory note.

NEW LAGUNA P. O. EQUIPMENT ADDED

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 13.—Installation of new windows and fixtures and several hundred new lock boxes in the post office has given this place the long expected improvement in postal facilities asked for many months ago.

The building was enlarged recently to give 1500 feet of floor space as is required by the postal department. Boxes added bring the total number to more than 800. Additional clerk allowance made recently permits keeping the window open from 8 in the morning until 6 at night. Postmaster Brayton S. Norton, in a recent report, showed the substantial growth of the district and the need of the equipment.

AGED COUPLE TAKES LONG AUTO JOURNEY

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dudley, the former of whom is 75 years old, have just arrived in Santa Ana from their home in Jonesville, Mich., 90 miles west of Detroit, having made the trip entirely on motor busses.

They came to Santa Ana to spend the Christmas holidays with their son and his family, D. W. Dudley, 1128 West Pine street, who is assistant city engineer.

Motor busses were selected by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley because they could see more of the country and because they could stop over at various cities en route. They left their home on November 27.

Happy over their selection of mode of travel and pleased at the outcome of it, both declared today they would make the return trip in the same manner. "Of course, we are going to take a different route, this time," said Dudley.

CITY COUNCIL MEMBER PAYS TRAFFIC FINE

City councilmen look just like anyone else to Officer W. E. B. Sherwood, when he finds their automobiles parked on the street longer than the law allows, at least that's what he says. That is the reason Stanley Goode, head of the street department, marched down to Judge J. P. Talbot's police court, yesterday afternoon, with a red ticket in his hand.

Goode didn't even offer the usual alibi that most offenders use when they come to court. He pleaded guilty and when the judge said "two bucks," he dug up the cash, said "thanks," and was on his way.

Later, he said he thought more of the arresting officer, Sherwood, than he did in the past and termed him as "on the job."

Other overtime violators who were fined in police court yesterday drew $2 fines. They were: P. G. Updyke, Laguna; R. H. Glidden, H. T. Duckett, E. W. Smith, Mrs. P. E. Elsworth, L. E. Smith, Federal Finance Company; and E. E. Block.

Charged with parking too far away from the curb, E. W. Magrusen, Garden Grove, was fined $2 and A. H. Morrow, charged with parking in a loading zone, drew a $2 fine.

LAGUNA POLICE TO WAR ON CANINES

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 13.—Need of a more drastic ruling regarding dogs which habitually roam the streets was stated by Chief of Police Abe Johnson, when Bruce Handy, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Handy was bitten by a shepherd dog said to belong to Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Benson. On Saturday, a woman was bitten on the hand when she attempted to stop a dog fight. Recently, a delegation of Arch Beach citizens appeared in the police court regarding a dog in that district, and an echo of the same disturbance came before the council two weeks ago in a petition asking that action be taken regarding this same dog.

Much complaint has been made because dogs run loose, though wearing license tags, chasing automobiles through the streets, congesting the sidewalks, and making themselves very much a nuisance, according to those who express themselves.

L. A. Man Injured In Auto Mishap

John Miller, Los Angeles man, was slightly injured at 3 p. m. yesterday when the machine in which he was riding with F. N. Staples, 626 East Fifty-second street, Los Angeles, turned over two and a half miles southeast of Laguna Beach, according to a report filed with the sheriff today.

He was taken to a physician's office at Laguna Beach and later removed to his home.

COSTA MESANS ASK FOR FIRE PROTECTION

A committee of Costa Mesa citizens headed by L. C. Slothower appeared before Orange county supervisors today and appealed to the supervisors for the formation of a fire protection district at Costa Mesa. It is proposed to form a district similar to that at Garden Grove. The committee was named at the meeting of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce last night. It is proposed to purchase a fire engine and employ a truck driver. A volunteer department will be formed giving Costa Mesa first class fire protection. Fire hydrants are already established in the city at convenient spots.

The discussion of the fire protection district and the selection of a nominating committee to prepare for the election of directors of the chamber were the outstanding orders of business last night. A. E. Block, N. O. Mellott and A. E. Spaulding were named on the nominating committee. The election of directors is to be done by ballot during the first week of January, according to Donald Dodge, president of the chamber. The Costa Mesa organization also endorsed the application of the city of Newport Beach for a bridge connecting the mainland and Parkinson Island.

SALVATION ARMY WORKER IS CALLED

Mrs. William DuTemple, wife of Captain DuTemple of the Salvation army, died at her barracks home here last night, following an illness of five or six months.

Funeral services will be held at the Salvation army temple at 10 a. m., tomorrow, and following the services the body will be taken to Ingewood for interment. Short services will be held at the grave. Interment will be in charge of the Winbigler Mission Funeral home.

Mrs. DuTemple is survived by her husband and three children, Ella and William, twins, born in Waco, Tex., while the father was in army service over seas during the war period, and Lynn, 7 years old.

Born and raised in the Salvation army work, Mrs. DuTemple had devoted her life to helping persons in distress, morally, physically and financially. She was born in Los Angeles, but at an early age took up crusade work and did crusade and rescue work in St. Louis and El Paso, she having met and married Captain DuTemple at the latter place.

Mrs. DuTemple was a descendant of the Brayton brothers who came over on the Mayflower. Her mother, Mrs. Ella Brayton, resides in Los Angeles. Two brothers of Mrs. DuTemple, Henry and Arthur Brayton, also live in the Angel City.

Captain and Mrs. DuTemple have been in charge of the local barracks for the past year and a half.

YOUTH ADMITS MANY THEFTS IN SANTA ANA

Several thefts in Santa Ana during the past two weeks, some of which had not been reported to police, are alleged to have been confessed to by Roy DeSmet, 16, arrested early yesterday morning when officers found him hiding in the Lambros Shoe Shining parlor at 108 East Fourth street.

The confessions are said to have been made to Sid Smithwick, assistant police chief, after he had talked with the boy.

DeSmet is said to have confessed to entering the shoe shining parlor once before, on the night of October 31, when $50 was stolen from the cash register. He told police, they said, that he put $40 of the money in a bank and still had $30 of it there.

Police said he admitted taking a wrist watch from the West Coast-Walker theater, two weeks ago, and a pair of opera glasses from the home of Major Anderson, in North Broadway Park. Neither of these thefts had been reported.

DeSmet also is alleged to have confessed to stealing a bill fold from the Belsel leather goods store on Sycamore street.

He is being held for the time being while officers check his activities.

MUSSOLINI PLANS TREE PLANTING

ROME, Dec. 12.—The long French roadways lined with overhanging trees on both sides recalled by the American doughboy on his way to the front will form a model for Premier Mussolini's new roads throughout Italy.

The Duce has given orders that trees must be planted along all the main highways, and where excessive deforestation has taken place, as in many parts of South Italy, the proprietors of woods and forests who have been guilty of uneconomic free-cutting will have to repair the damage by replanting at their own expense.

The problem of deforestation in Italy is one that is bound up with meteorological and, therefore, agricultural conditions.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER FINDS WATER IS PURE

That not even a flood such as the one which occurred last winter, would place the Newport Beach water supply in danger of pollution as a result of the leak in the outfall sewer, was declared today by Dr. V. G. Presson, health officer of Orange county, who investigated the situation yesterday.

Dr. Presson stated that although the leak may be held to be a nuisance, the condition of the underground flow probably would result in carrying any pollution to the ocean before it reached the wells. The casings are not perforated until a depth of between 400 and 500 feet in reached and it is not believed that the polluted water from the sewer could reach that depth.

The proposed construction of dikes to prevent the backing up of water in the outfall line with the incoming tide, coupled with the booster pump which is expected to be installed, will take care of the situation, Dr. Presson believes. He is in favor of having the leak mended, however.

At present the leakage is flowing into a slough nearby, his investigation disclosed, and is being pumped out into the ocean.

LAGUNA HOME SAVED
LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 13.—Sixteen hours after the Kronig family of Los Angeles had left their Arch Beach house, smoke was discovered coming from the home. EARLY MEMORIES REVIVED IN "THE COVERED WAGON" FILM AT WEST COAST WEDNESDAY

"The Covered Wagon," which picture the public has definitely stamped as being the greatest of them all will begin a four-day engagement at the West Coast-Walker theater tomorrow. In addition to the screen presentation of the epic production will be presented an impressive Atmospheric Prologue staged under the personal supervision of Oscar A. Kantner of Paramount Famous Lasky, producers of the giant film.

The story of "The Covered Wagon" is brim full of beautiful romance, daring adventure and inspiring comedy.

Jesse Wingate, with his wife and small son, is the hero of the picture. He is captain of a great caravan of covered wagons waiting for the 1848 Spring "jump off" at Westport Landing on the site of what is now Kansas City. Will Banion, leading another train from Liberty, Mo., joins Wingate. The time for starting is set. Banion and Molly immediately show interest in each other.

After two weeks out, Molly asks to ride Banion's horse. Sam Woodhull, her fiancé, helps her mount. The animal bolts and Banion astride Sam's horse, saves her. Jackson, one of Banion's scouts, prevents the rivals from fighting. Woodhull lies to Jesse Wingate about Banion's character and the latter is ordered to keep away from Molly.

At the next river crossing Banion and Woodhull quarrel over the advisability of swimming the horses across. Molly upbraids Banion, believing he has betrayed her. Woodhull doesn't defend himself, accepting Wingate's ultimatum that the two trains separate. Molly becomes more and more interested in Banion whose many traits she admires. Banion fords the river. Wingate follows. On the opposite bank they come upon the ruins of Woodhull's train, which has gone on ahead only to be destroyed by Indians and all the company but himself massacred. The train move on. Banion's wagon being joined by Jim Bridger, owner of Fort Bridger, who is freighting supplies across from Council Bluffs to his fort. They run into buffalo and hunt for meat. At the end of the hunt, Jackson finds Woodhull caught in some quicksand. He rescues him but starts to throw him back when he recognizes him. Banion stops this, sending him on.

first recent this, Molly later forgives him.

Molly's marriage to Woodhull is to take place at Fort Bridger. Arrived there, Banion is eager to push on before the ceremony. Kili Carson is there on his way east, carrying dispatches and news about the discovery of gold in California. His dispatches exonerate Banion from a false charge of cattle stealing.

On the night of the wedding Bridger crawls to Molly's wagon and tells her she mustn't marry Woodhull until he (Bridger) can get drunk enough to remember Carson's message. After repeated drinks from a jug of applejack, he tells her that Banion is innocent of Woodhull's charges. Molly calls the wedding off and is about to start with Bridger to find Banion when an arrow wounds her.

Bridger, realizing the Indians are planning to attack, sends Jed to get Banion. The Indians attack at daybreak and are about to annihilate the Wingate train when Banion's men arrive.

STUDEBAKER MADE COVERED WAGONS FOR PIONEERS OF WEST; MAKING AUTOS TODAY

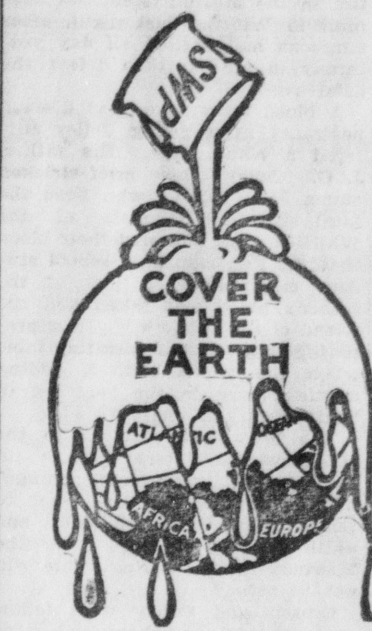

The marvelous development that has taken place in the past 75 years in transportation vehicles is vividly pictured in showing two of the Studebaker-built Covered Wagons of the days of 1852 and a new 1927 Studebaker Commander. One of these interesting vehicles is on display in front of the Walker theater and another will be seen in the Atmospheric Prologue to "The Covered Wagon" which opens at the local theater tomorrow.

The history of the evolution of transportation is a most interesting and fascinating one and no other name is so prominently connected with it since its earliest days as Studebaker. One of the most romantic of its chapters is that which introduces the first covered wagon built by John Studebaker in 1839 and which later played such an important part in opening up the golden west to civilization.

In 1852 Henry Clem and J. M. Studebaker established themselves in South Bend, Ind., as blacksmiths and wagon builders with a capital of $68 and two forges. J. M. Studebaker was but a youth of 19, possessed with the venture spirit of the pioneer. As gold had been discovered in California and thousands of daring men were rushing out there in quest of wealth, he determined to try his fortune.

seldom obtained for sales. The brothers appealed to John Studebaker to return from California to South Bend and join them in business. Consequently, after five years of hard work building wagons and wheelbarrows for the miners, he yielded and looked passage on a sailing ship for New York, via the Isthmus of Panama. With $8000 in gold nuggets he had earned, sewed in a leather belt and strapped around his waist this new money rehabilitated the firm and assured its future and property and today Studebaker ranks among the world's largest producers of modern transportation vehicles.

On September 5, 1927, a Studebaker Commander took first and second places in the Atlantic City 75-mile stock car race. On September 20 of this year three Studebaker Commanders finished first, second and third in the 75-mile stock car race at Charlotte, N. C. The winning car at Atlantic City averaged 85.95 miles per hour while at the Charlotte race the average was raised to 88.56 miles per hour.

For Two Generations 'Studebaker'

Studebaker has developed and expanded the transportation vehicle business until today it has reached world-wide proportions. Frugality, industry, self-denial and honesty characterized the lives of the Studebaker brothers and their father before them, and built the foundation upon which the trade name Studebaker rests today so securely. No trade name in American industry enjoys a better reputation. These men who pioneered the Covered Wagon are dead, but their spirit lives in the present Studebaker Corporation. The broad principle upon which Studebaker business is conducted and upon which it has prospered for seventy-five years, insures satisfaction to everybody who deals with the House of Studebaker.

It took John Studebaker five months to travel from South Bend, Indiana, to Hangtown, California, (now Placerville), in his Studebaker-built Covered Wagon in the year 1852. It took a Studebaker Commander (stock model 4-door sedan) just 77 hours and 40 minutes to travel from New York Harbor to San Francisco Bay on September 2nd, 1927. A Covered Wagon built by Studebaker and a Commander Sedan built by Studebaker will be on exhibit in front of the West Coast-Walker Theater for three days starting tomorrow.

GRAND AVENUE PAVING PLANS ARE GIVEN UP

Property owners last night protested out proceedings for the paving of Grand avenue, from First to Fourth street and the council abandoned the project. Owners of 75 per cent of the frontage on the section proposed to be improved signed the protest. It was asserted in the protest that the cost of the improvement would be more than 50 per cent of the assessed value of the property is involved.

F. H. Vehringer was awarded the contract for erection of a pump house building on the joint outfall sewer line at a point near the ocean and for installation of the pump equipment. The bid was $15,300. The pump is designed to relieve the pipe line of the pressure of ocean water that backs into the line at high tide and checks the flow of sewage.

Transfer of the east side of Sycamore street, from First to Walnut, to the business zone was authorized under an ordinance that was given its first reading. Mrs. Estella M. Wilson made application for the change.

Gus S. Wild was given permission to locate an oil station on the northeast corner of Third and Bush streets.

W. B. Blakeman was given permission to establish a pool and billiard hall at 403 West Fourth street. Blakeman has been operating the Alexandria pool room at 416 North Main and his lease there expired December 1.

Denying a protest filed against the installation of an ornamental lighting system in the southwest portion of the city, the council adopted a resolution ordering the installation of the system. Some of the protestants were represented at the meeting by Attorney William Menton.

Adoption was given a resolution of intention for installing a sewer on portions of Poinsettia, Fruit, Sixth, Garfield and Halladay streets.

An ordinance was adopted to make operations of the planning commission conform to a law passed by the last legislature.

First reading was given a new ordinance to control operation of the municipal water department, the new document dealing mostly with a new schedule of rates.

The council voted to send the municipal band to the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena on New Year's day.

CITY COUNCIL TAKES FINAL ACTION ON SET-BACK LINE CONTROVERSY MONDAY NIGHT

Acting on recommendations of the city planning commission, the city council last night virtually settled the set back line controversy that has been raging for some weeks with more or less fury.

COLLEGE BOYS OFFERED USE OF LOCAL "Y"

College men returning to Santa Ana for the Christmas vacation will be invited to be guests of the local Y. M. C. A. during their holiday season, according to action taken by the board of directors at their December meeting. All men who are students in college, and who are to spend their vacation in this community, will be welcomed for the use of membership privileges at the Y. All that they need to do is to report at the association office and request their passes as guests, Ralph Smedley, executive secretary, said.

Other items of business transacted by the board of directors included the appointment of a special committee to prepare for the annual meeting of the association to be held January 17. This committee, which is to be named by President O. H. Barr, will make nominations for the board of directors, and will handle arrangements for the program of the meeting, which is one of the big annual events of the Y. M. C. A.

A proposition to improve the surface of the tennis courts was taken up, and J. A. Cranston and P. H. Norton were made a special committee to carry this matter through, the courts to be resurfaced either with asphalt or cement.

The finances of the association were shown to be in good condition by the treasurer's report. A net reduction of six thousand dollars has been made during the year in the debt on the building, in addition to the payment of interest and taxes and other heavy charges.

Special attention was given by the directors to the matter of Y. M. C. A. memberships as Christmas gifts, a project which is generally meeting with favor. It appears likely that a number of men and boys will find Y. M. C. A. membership certificates in their stockings this Christmas.

HE'LL HAVE NEW DOG

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—For years Dr. R. Robinson Duff has taken walks at night, confident he was safe from prowlers because his dog, Tipperary, accompanied him. Last night he was accosted by a snuff and ran home. Dr. Duff lost $130.

First street, from east to west city limits will be 70 feet wide, it at some future date widening of the street is undertaken on the basis of a 5-foot set back line on each side of the street approved by the council in acceptance of the recommendations of the commission. The line was originally presented as a 10-foot proposal on both sides of the street.

The proposed 10-foot set back on South Main, from First to the city limits, was changed to a 5-foot line.

On North Main, from Sixth to the city limits a line was established to eventually make the street 90 feet wide.

Protests were filed against the 10-foot set back lines on East and West First street and a hearing on the protests was held at a joint meeting of the council and commission a week ago last night, and the change to the 5-foot line was made without giving property owners the opportunity to protest. The same situation obtains with reference to the new line on South Main. Figures were not given at the meeting last night revealing what per cent of the frontage on the streets was represented by the protests.

Property owners on the east end of First street still seemed to be confused as to what is intended in the project of the set back line, and opposition was voiced against the line by persons who seemed to be of the opinion that the set back was a widening proceeding.

It was pointed out by Mayor Frank Purinton that the city at this time contemplates widening the street only between Main street and the Santa Fe railroad tracks, as a petition asking this action has been filed with the body. It also was made clear by the mayor that property owners east of the tracks would not have to bear any portion of the expense of widening the street between the two points named. The cost of widening east of the tracks will be less expensive than between Main and the tracks because there is less business building construction. The city council and the county board of supervisors are co-operating in a movement to make Seventeenth street an 80-foot wide street from the Los Angeles-Orange county line on the west to Lemon Heights on the east, it was revealed, when the council approved ed recommendation that the street through the city be made an 80-foot avenue. First reading was given an ordinance to make action on Seventeenth street effective.

SISLER TRADE IN AIR AS BIG LEAGUERS MEET

Phil Ball Willing to Part With Great First Sacker If Deal Can Be Made

BY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—A trade which would take George Sisler, some seasons ago rated as about the most useful ball player in the American league, away from the St. Louis Browns, was in the air today as major league magnates, managers and majorities settled down to the second day of the annual meetings.

The National league opened its meeting at the Waldorf Astoria, with little except routine matters to discuss. But it was an impending trade in the junior circuit, involving the star of Phil Ball's club, which most intrigued the interest of the baseball world.

Deals With Prosperity
President John Heydler's report, presented to the club owners of the National league, dealt with prosperity.

The league, said Heydler, had enjoyed the presence of most cash customers than ever before during its 53 years of existence.

The steering committee, composed of Colonel Jake Ruppert, Phil Ball, Phil Veeck, Barney Dreyfus and others, had spent a five-hour session discovering the way to a peaceful outcome of all the troubles of organized baseball as far, at least, as the major leagues were concerned.

Just what response the major leagues were to make to the challenge of the minors regarding the draft rules remained undecided.

Major Circuits Friendly
Between themselves, the two major circuits were friendly as ham and eggs.

Meanwhile, Phil Ball, Connie Mack, Billy Evans, the new business manager of the Indians; Comiskey on behalf of the White Sox; George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers and others of the American league were going around and around the old trading post—every ear cocked for a seasonable bargain.

Evans was in the market for a center fielder, with a preference for Harry Rice of the Browns. Connie Mack would not refuse an outfielder himself.

The Sisler trade, however, was the hottest piece of gossip. Ball let it be known that George was available if the proper offer were forthcoming.

POTENTIAL RECORD BREAKER

"As surely as I know my name, Lee Barnes next season will break the world record in the pole vault." That is the statement of Dean Cromwell, coach of the U. S. C. track squad. Barnes is captain-elect of the Trojan cinderpaths.

"For unusual achievements under trying conditions!"

When the University of Southern California athletic committee recently awarded Lee S. Barnes, captain-elect of the 1928 Trojan track team, a merit monogram on the above basis, those officials told in one short sentence the remarkable vaulting career of the far-western star.

For three years Lee Barnes trained under the greatest of all hardships—competing while his father lay at home an invalid with death often near at hand.

The Barnes family is not one of independent means and throughout his entire college career, Lee has been the chief support of the family. His mother also works.

Guards Moments Preciously
Lee's daily schedule during the 1927 season, when he reached his greatest performance, was one of efficiency; he guarded every moment preciously.

Every morning Barnes attended classes from 8 o'clock until noon. Each morning he had one vacant hour, 60 minutes in which to train toward the goal of the world's greatest vaulter, which he had set for himself.

At 1 o'clock every afternoon, Lee began work at a gasoline station, supplying motorists with gas and oil until closing time at night. The dull moments through the day he spent in studying and not once during his three years at U. S. C. has Barnes ever been on the "failure" or even the "danger" list for scholarship.

Took Day Off Saturday
Barnes received one day off a week in this full-time job. He took it on Saturdays so that he could compete for the Trojan team that day. On trips, Barnes has had to miss only a few hours from regular duty on Fridays, returning in

COLLEGE SWIM MEET AWARDED TO SANTA ANA

The conference swimming meet for the Southern California junior college circuit will be held at Santa Ana this year, it was decided at the meeting of the league delegates held at Fullerton junior college. June 2 was set as the date for the aquatic event.

Other conference meets, including the schedules for track and tennis, were decided on at the league meeting, attended by Walter L. Scott, head of the physical education department in the Santa Ana city schools.

The first of the athletic events will be the annual cross-country run that will be held next Saturday at Fullerton.

Track, tennis and baseball are all divided in sectional games, similar to basketball. Santa Ana is in the western division matched against the teams of Fullerton, Pasadena, Compton, Long Beach and Glendale.

The track schedule begins February 25. The conference track meet will be held at Compton March 31. Dates for the track schedule are February 25, March 3, March 10, March 17, and March 24. Both baseball and tennis schedules open April 21 and on the subsequent dates of April 28, May 5, May 12 and May 19.

Baseball games will be played on the opposite field from that of track and tennis.

A wrestling schedule is to be held in the Southern California junior college league early in the near future, before the track season is launched. The preliminaries will come March 14 and the conference finals will be held March 16 at Pasadena, it was decided by the officials. A conference cup will be awarded the winning college.

LOUGHRAN GETS TITLE BY WIN OVER SLATTERY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, is the world's light heavyweight champion, no strings attached.

All the punches Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, had in his bag could not knock off the crown adjusted on Loughran's head by the New York state athletic commission.

In 15 rounds of furious battling at Madison Square Garden last night, Loughran withstood Slattery's sensational assault in the early rounds and fought on to win the referee's decision.

At the end there were many eminent boxing authorities who thought Slattery had won.

However, Tom Donohue, president of the National Boxing association, which picked Slattery as its champion, was satisfied with the decision.

"The National Boxing association recognized Loughran as the 175-pound champion as a result of his victory over Slattery," Donohue said. "It was a great fight. Slattery perhaps landed the most punches, but Loughran carried the most steam."

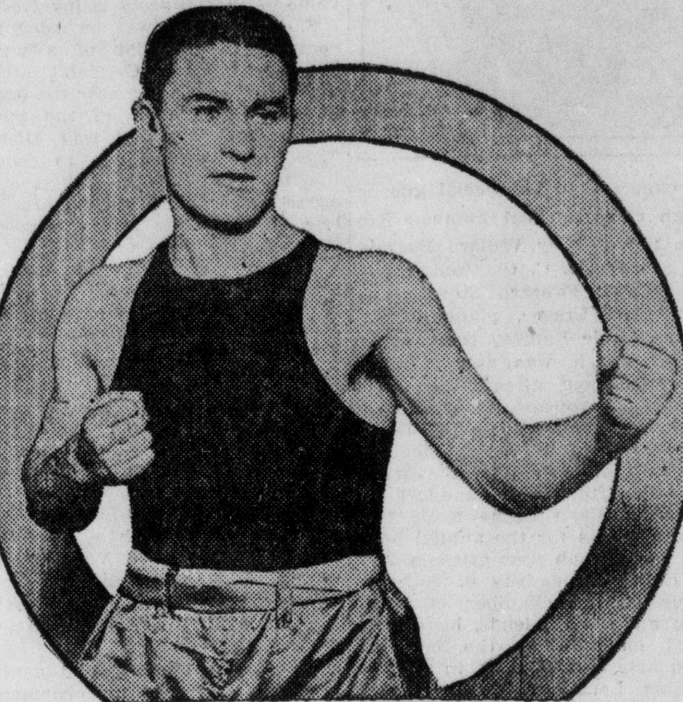

Slattery weighed 165 1-2 against Loughran's 173 1-2. It was an unusually low weight for the Buffalo boy.

Slattery went great early in the fight and many believe he would have won the decision if the bout had gone only 10 rounds.

Loughran has aspirations to the title of "the fighting champion." He already has signed to meet Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen, Wn., boxer, here on January 6 and is gunning for a bout with Jack Delaney. He may give Slattery a return bout shortly.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP

Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, is the new world's light heavyweight boxing champion. He beat Jimmy Slattery for the crown in New York last night, whipping the clever Buffalo puncher on points in 15 rounds.

AMERICA LOSES TILDEN. HUNTER FOR DAVIS CUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The loss of William Tilden and Francis T. Hunter from the ranks of the eligibles for the United States Davis cup team leaves the United States Lawn Tennis association with a problem.

Tilden announced he and Hunter would participate in the Wimbledon, England, and St. Cloud, France, tournaments, despite the association announcement to challenge in the American zone. He had made a previous announcement in which he said the American players should be sent abroad as early as possible and should challenge in the European zone.

Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis cup committee, when informed of Tilden's decision to go abroad said the committee was prepared to carry on the campaign for regaining the Davis cup without Tilden.

William M. Johnston of San Francisco and Dick Williams of Philadelphia, are the only veterans who are possibilities for the team, although they have not announced their decision to compete.

The younger members of the Davis cup squad last year were George Lott Jr., of Chicago; John Hennessey of Indianapolis; John Varryn of East Orange, N. J.; John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., and Lewis N. White of Austin, Tex.

Notre Dame Wins Basketball Game

IOWA CITY, Dec. 13.—Notre Dame won its third straight basketball victory here last night, defeating the University of Iowa, 23 to 20. The Irish led 12 to 0 at the half.

Texas, national intercollegiate champion, are two other likely candidates for the team.

FULLERTON LIGHTIES BEAT EL MONTE, 7-0

Dauser's 45-yard run to a touchdown in the first period enabled the Fullerton lightweights to nose out the El Monte High Class B team yesterday by a 7-to-0 score in the semifinal round of the Southern California lightweight play-off. By virtue of yesterday's victory the Fullerton youngsters move into the final game of the play-off when they tackle Long Beach for the title.

Dauser grabbed a punt and ran through the El Monte team for the only touchdown of the game. He converted it adding the extra point to Fullerton's score. Last week Fullerton and El Monte battled to a 7-to-7 tie.

The score:
Fullerton 7 0 0 0-7

Touchdown—Dauser. Goals after touchdown—Dauser.

MINORS HAVE TROUBLE
The annual cry of the minor leagues relative to the scarcity of ball players was loudly heard all over the state of Texas during the recent conclave in Dallas.

The college yell offered as an alibi for the difficulty experienced by the minors in getting players, was laid to the activities of the majors.

It is claimed the major league scouts, with their unlimited bank roll, tie up the college stars and make it impossible for the minor leagues, particularly the smaller ones, to do business of any kind.

The minors also point to the fact that the major league clubs, 16 of them, with a player limit of 40 each, control 640 ball players at the beginning of each season.

All of which is true. However, the majors, as a matter of self-preservation, have been forced to do this because of apparent inability to agree with the minors on various questions pertaining to draft and price.

BARNARD HAS PLAN
Because of the need of a place to develop these players, a great many major league clubs are buying minor league franchises of various classification to take care of their assorted players.

While talking the situation over at the Dallas meeting with President E. S. Barnard of the American league, he unfolded to me a plan that would protect the minors, put them in line to make good money and, best of all, protect them against the scarcity of players, which has been a real handicap since the war.

It is the scheme of President Barnard that the minor leagues, particularly those of possibly the last three classifications, go about the matter of getting players as systematically as the majors.

President Barnard suggests these leagues employ an official scout, who shall represent the league rather than any club in the organization.

SCOUT FOR ALL CLUBS
During the progress of the season this scout shall scour the territory covered by his league as well as adjacent states. If the expense involved is not too great, he shall confine his work to the amateurs, smaller colleges and semi-professional ranks. Out of the league treasury he shall take care of the expense involved in getting these players, signing them up at the fairest salary possible.

At some time designated by the league, either during the season or at the close, these players shall be allotted to the various clubs by lottery.

President Barnard's first thought was the president should allot the players. He later changed this idea to disposing of them through the lottery system, so there would be no chance for charges of favoritism.

It strikes me that the plan of the American league president is one that the minors must ultimately adopt to keep in the running and be protected on the matter of players.

The plan is really a miniature of the scouting system as employed by the major leagues, except the scout in question works for the organization rather than a club.

Fullerton Plays Santa Maria In L. A. Ball Park

was believed that this contest would be played on neutral grounds Friday afternoon.

Original plans were for Santa Maria, conqueror of Huntington Park last Saturday, to meet "Shorty" Smith's "Big Red Team" at the Los Angeles Coliseum but when Coliseum officials turned over that stadium for the Police-Firemen scuffle it was necessary to look further for a playing field that could accommodate the patrons.

Some consideration was given the Rose Bowl at Pasadena and some wanted both the Class A and Class B games to be held at Long Beach but after serious consideration Fullerton authorities, who had the privilege of determining the site, came to the conclusion that Wrigley field would be the best place for all concerned.

Wrigley field, home of the Los Angeles baseball club of the Pacific Coast league, is located at the corner of Forty-first street and Avalon boulevard and has seating accommodations for approximately 35,000 persons. It had a double-decked grandstand and all parts of the playing field are in plain view from any seat.

With this momentous question settled, Fullerton settled down today to the task of building up its defense to stop the power plays and the deceptive reverses that the much heavier Saints will throw at them.

The "Reds" will be a bit handicapped as they may have to play without S. Del Giorgio, veteran tackle, who suffered a badly bruised elbow in the Covina ruckus, but the rest of the club is in fine fettle. Oake Adams, the offensive sparkplug and one of the best forward passers in prep ranks, is in much better shape than he was for the Covina contest and Coach Smith is sure to make the most of his all-around skill.

ARTESIA FAVORITE TO WIN BALL GAME

The Artesia school ball team will be the favorites to win the city championship when the deciding game is played tomorrow between Artesia and Lincoln at the Santa Ana high school grounds. The two ball clubs have battled to the final round of the Santa Ana city indoor ball league series.

By virtue of the whitewashing that the Artesia team gave the previously undefeated Lowell team, winning 17 to 0, in the semi-finals last Saturday, the Mexican school nine will be favored. Artesia school has completed the season undefeated while the Lincoln team has a tie game registered against its record.

WHEN WINTER COMES, WHAT DO THEY DO?

Not all stars in the big leagues sit before the "hot stove" league and prate over their different averages of the past season. Take a look here. Freddy Lindstrom, Giants' infielder, spends his time keeping the home fires burning for mother—Doug McWeeney, Cubs' pitcher, is a contractor in Chicago on plumbing—Leo Dixon, catcher with the Browns, clerks in his dad's hardware store! They keep in shape, as many others do, by working during the winter months.

EXPECT BARNES TO SET WORLD RECORD

time to start work Sunday noon. His co-workers are on duty at these times and Barnes always pays them back by relieving them. Whenever the Trojan star journeys to the intercollegiate or National A. A. U. meets he is forced to lose money needed by the family.

Fraternities have been rapped in print of late but here's an answer. With Lee and his mother both away from home, it is necessary for someone to do the housework, cook the meals and give the invalid father necessary care. The Barnes family cannot afford a nurse and fraternity brothers of Lee Barnes have for the past three years done these things to show their loyalty to Lee.

On Feb. 28, 1926, in the first meet of his varsity career, Barnes cleared 13 feet 5 1/8 inches for a new American record. Later, on May 15, 1926, he broke his own mark by doing 13 feet, 8 inches at the Pacific Coast intercollegiate at Stanford. At the national intercollegiate he was forced to take second to Sabin Carr of Yale and later at the A. A. U. meet he dropped to third place. Few knew that "trying conditions" caused his failure.

In spite of his limited time to practice, Barnes was consistent at 13 feet 6 inches during the entire 1927 season. Not once did he fall below 13 feet. Three times he soared over the 13 feet 6 inch marker. And then at the I. C. A. meet he boosted his own mark to 13 feet 9 1/2 inches. Only he and Sabin Carr remained in competition.

The bar went to 14 feet. Barnes tried this height once in 1926 and twice in 1927. Carr had attempted this mark 12 previous times. Both vaulters missed twice. Throughout that entire meet Barnes vaulted first among all contestants and Carr last.

Barnes tried his third time. He cleared the cross-piece and toppled it off coming down. On one of his tries, the bar had fallen off as he started upward and he had been forced to try again. On Carr's fifteenth effort of his career, he established the present world's record.

In the athletic code of Southern California there is a clause awarding merit letters to members of coast championship teams in football, basketball and baseball. In track such awards come only from an intercollegiate championship, an Olympic championship or a world's record. Barnes had done none of these since becoming a Trojan. So he was granted an award for "unusual accomplishments under trying conditions" by the professors on the committee, thus showing that to all pedagogues athletics is not "a deadly sin."

Ans as an ending Coach Dean Cronwell, his mentor, speaks: "As surely as I know my name, I know that next season Lee will break the world's pole vault record."

Quite a tossing about of ring titles is under way in Madison Square Garden, but the public apathy towards the tossing process indicates to just what sorry depths the fight game has fallen.

Time was when the changing of a championship was accompanied by loud cries, wine-bibbing, rotogravure photographs of the new titleholder being kind to his family, and what not.

At the moment, the announcement of a "winnah and new champion" usually is greeted with a yawn and some such discouraging comment as: "What of it?"

It really makes very little difference whether Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo or Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia is known as light heavyweight champion of the world, except, perhaps, to those gentlemen and those whose meal tickets they comprise.

A couple of other trick titles will be at stake in Madison Square Garden this week.

Tod Morgan, who has had the junior lightweight crown about long enough, will defend it for the second or third time, I am not sure which, against Joe Glick, the sullen-faced New York Hebrew.

At one time, Hebrew fighters held most of our worth-while ring championships outside the heavyweight division, where none of the race ever made the grade. Nowadays, it is not so.

Glick has been knocking at the junior lightweight door for a couple of years. For one thing, while not the fighter that Morgan is, I believe Glick is a natural junior lightweight, one who has no trouble making 130 pounds, whereas the champion is heavier.

The flyweight title should be safe for the Hebrews when Izzy Schwartz and Newboy Brown get through with their scrap in the same ring Friday night.

Two championship bouts in a night is merely another example of how the "racket" has run down at the heels.

The flyweight title was in safe hands when Fidel LaBarba held it. That olive-skinned youngster could take good care of it. Only little Johnny Vacca of Boston had Fidel's number.

LaBarba is now a college boy, studying to be a doctor. "What does he want to be a doctor for?" Gene Tunney asked one hot summer afternoon when several of us were loafing on the lawn of the Lake Villa training quarters.

"A doctor is at everyone's beck and call, out at all hours of the night, and at the very best only makes about $15,000 a year. He's just a public servant, that's all."

Tunney pointed out that if LaBarba continued in the ring, he could make as much in a night "as a doctor makes in a year."

Gene considered Fidel's quest of an education decidedly a waste of time.

Colima, Long In Ring Go Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Oone of those much-heralded "grudge fights" is on tap at the Olympia auditorium here tonight when Bert Colima, the Whittier Mexican, meets Charley Long, Omaha negro, in a 10-round bout. The fighters will weigh around 155 pounds each.

Long won a knockout victory over Colima a month ago in Oakland and the latter and his manager, "Dutch" Myers, at once contended Long's body punches that sent Colima to the canvas were low.

HUSBAND WINS DIVORCE, THEN WIFE GETS ONE

Some people have been worrying for a long time about the so-called divorce evil. But it's getting worse. At least the alarmists might put it that way. For one decree to a family no longer seems to be enough today, and both husband and wife will have to have one in order to keep up with the crowd, if every estranged couple follows the example of Mrs. Orle Tremaine, of Anaheim.

Her former husband, Ellery G. Tremaine, garage mechanic, already claimed to have been granted one last year in Reno. That fact, however, did not deter Mrs. Tremaine from going before Superior Judge James L. Allen and asking for a divorce for herself.

She got it, too. Whether she didn't feel safe with only one between them, or whether she wanted to show her husband she could keep any pace he might set, was not divulged in the courtroom. The latter reason is believed to have some weight behind it, though. For Mrs. Tremaine declared that her spouse repeatedly asked her why she didn't have some class like other women.

Now she has them all beat, for it is believed that Mrs. Tremaine set a record when she brought two divorces into one family. The legal quirk whereby this twin set of decrees was made possible lay in the fact that her husband's decree was not mentioned in the pleadings of the case, and therefore did not legally come to the court's attention.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Two men suffered serious burns here today in a gas explosion which partially wrecked a dwelling. The blast was traced to an accumulation of gas between the walls of the house.

Menjou Will Be Married In U. S.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—In denying reports that her marriage to Adolphe Menjou, screen actor, was to take place in Paris, Kathryn Carver, film player, announced today that the wedding would take place in America early next June. Plans call for a honeymoon abroad, Miss Carver said. She has been Menjou's leading woman in a number of his pictures. Both have been married before.

WILL WED AGAIN

Ora Obetz, who a few days ago was granted an annulment of her marriage to her widowed stepfather, who, she claims, forced her to marry him, after her mother's death, under the threat of being sent to a reform school or a convent, is to wed again. She has filed notice of intention.

'GIRL OF OZARKS' TO MARRY AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Granted an annulment of her marriage to her stepfather-husband only a few days ago, Ora Egan Obetz, 18, has complied with the California "sin marriage" law by signifying her intent to wed, naming Clarence Dale Gillum, 22, as the bridegroom.

Mrs. Obetz, in obtaining her freedom from Louis Allen Obetz, testified that after her mother's death her stepfather forced her to travel through the Ozarks with him in a wagon and made her marry him in Kansas City when she was only 13. She was granted an annulment on the grounds that the marriage license had been fraudulently obtained. She was given possession of her child.

UNDUE INFLUENCE ON WILL CHARGED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Charges that the will of Frank A. Hicks was executed while he was unduly influenced by their stepmother were contained in a contest action filed on behalf of James Hicks, a son, of San Francisco, and Mary Hicks Kissel, a daughter, of Oakland, here today.

Hicks, who died in October, left an estate estimated at $70,000, much of which is stock in the Hicks Machinery company. The will left the home and one-third of the residue to Edith Templeton Hicks, stepmother of the contestants, one-third of the residue to Edward Hicks, a minor son, and one-sixth of the residue to each of the contestants.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Describing the market, the Wall Street Journal says:

Pronounced strength continued to characterize stock exchange dealings today. Active demand was in evidence for Steel, General Motors, American Can and other industrial leaders.

Indications that the year-end re-investment movement was getting underway were observable in the action of seasoned dividend shares, particularly of the rail division. Canadian Pacific mounted sharply while buying of good character came into Chesapeake and Ohio and Norfolk and Western.

An important factor in strengthening the confidence in bull forces was the market's quick recovery from the unfavorable effects of the U. S. and O. P. A. decision.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The bottom dropped out of the market in wheat and all grains took a sharp dive in sympathy, during today's session of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Cash wheat dropped 1 to 1 1/2c. The weakness in wheat discouraged the bulls in the corn pit and liquidation started shortly after the opening. The cash market was 1/4c lower.

The remnants of support faded out of all pits during the last hour of the session and closing figures were almost identical with the day's low points.

Wheat closed 2 to 2 1/2c lower; corn 3 to 3 1/2c lower and oats 1 1/4 to 1 1/2c off.

SWING BACKS J. H. WHITAKER AS POSTMASTER

ANAHEIM, Dec. 13.—Settin at rest here for the past few weeks, a letter was received here yesterday from Congressman Phil D. Swing, now in Washington, D. C., stating that he has recommended the reappointment of J. H. Whitaker as Anaheim postmaster.

Congressman Swing stated that he has received the endorsement of Postmaster General Harry New of Whitaker for the post, which is said to be paramount to reappointment.

Swing writes: "It is the general policy of the administration to reappoint postmasters having satisfactory records in the absence of considerations not shown in the official records which would make such action inadvisable."

"I have received few complaints regarding Mr. Whitaker's service as postmaster and many endorsements of him."

TODAY'S HorrorScope

DECEMBER 13, 1927

Friend husband may bounce through the door tonight, smack you on the lips, and present you with a bouquet. Before you decide to die of surprise, remember that he is probably under the influence of the full moon. The libration (or is it libation) of the full moon is often responsible for some nice Christmas gifts at about this time of the year. So, why worry? In fact, we'd be willing to, ah—help the full moon get fuller if the gifts were bought at this full gift store.

We'll just say: Bavarian China, imported glassware, fire sets, radiant heaters, wheel goods for kiddies, electrical goods, etc.

ANAHEIM CLUB GETS CRIPPLED CHILDREN DATA

ANAHEIM, Dec. 13.—That California is estimated to have some 15,000 crippled children, of which less than 20 per cent are attending school, and that the condition of fully 50 per cent of these could be corrected if given the proper attention, was the declaration of Miss Bertha Strange, secretary-manager of the California Crippled Children's Relief association, given in an address before the Anaheim Rotary club at its regular luncheon meeting held yesterday noon in the Elks' clubhouse.

Many Visitors Present
The meeting was an open one with many visitors, including representatives of other civic clubs present to hear Miss Strange's address. Places were laid at the tables for more than 70 persons.

Plans for the Rotary's annual Christmas party, at which the wives and families of members will be special guests and which is to be held on the next regular meeting date, December 19, were discussed at a brief business session that opened the meeting. President S. C. Hartranft presiding. It was decided that no meetings would be held by the club on December 26 or January 2 on account of the holiday season, the first meeting after the Christmas party to come January 9.

H. E. W. Barnes led the community singing, assisted by Miss Catherine Williams at the piano, following which Mr. Barnes presented Miss Williams with a purse from the members, raised in token of their appreciation of her service during the past year as club accompanist.

Interest Traced
Tracing the development of civilized man's interest in the work of rehabilitating the crippled child, with particular reference to the part played by the San Francisco Rotary club in organizing such work in California in July, 1926, through the formation of the California Crippled Children's association, Miss Strange explained in detail the legislation that was passed at the last session of the California legislature in the interest of such work.

Bills Aid Children
One of these bills provides for the extending of physical relief to the needy crippled children in the state and the other lays upon California school districts the task of providing such handicapped children with the same educational and vocational training advantages as are enjoyed by normal children, she said.

Laws on the statute books may be entirely ineffectual unless there is some organization or agency to see that they are put into effect, the speaker declared. "The California Crippled Children's Relief association has taken upon itself the responsibility of seeing that these two important laws are put fully into action."

County Stands Expense
Under the laws passed, each county must stand the expense of caring for its own crippled children, either by doing the work itself or letting the state do it and footing the bills, she said. The various school districts must bear the expense of educating the crippled children in their districts either providing means of bringing such children to school or giving them instruction in their homes, she said.

Survey Under Way
As a first step in carrying out the provisions of these laws to their fullest intent, the state association is now co-operating with the state department of health in conducting a thorough survey of all the crippled children in the state needing help, the speaker said.

Answering the question that, she said, is sometimes raised as to the physically deficient children being usually mentally deficient as well, the speaker stated that a survey of 2148 cases revealed only 38 to be mentally affected. "Crippled children are kept in the background so much, are isolated from normal children to such an extent that it is only natural that they should seem to be different," she said.

PLANNING COMMISSION IS PROPOSED IN BEACH CITY; NOMINATING BODY CHOSEN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 13.—A committee of three persons was appointed yesterday to nominate members of a proposed city planning commission, which is being sponsored by the chamber of commerce. C. P. Patton, C. P. Pann and Willis Warner compose the nominating committee of the chamber of commerce. The committee will select a number of candidates for the planning commission and seven will be selected at an open meeting of the chamber January 9.

The planning commission was supposed to have been selected by the chamber yesterday. W. B. Manderville, president of the chamber, declined to assume the responsibility of naming the committee and it was decided to select the nominating committee by election.

C. G. Boster, mayor of Huntington Beach, brought the planning matter before the chamber of commerce several weeks ago. Boster declared that the planning commission was needed in Huntington Beach. Boster, in a short talk yesterday, declared that steps should be taken immediately to plan for residential, business and manufacturing districts. He declared that parks and an airport were needed by the city and that the planning commission should investigate these things at once.

D. G. A. Shank, member of the city council, also spoke in favor of the planning commission, predicting that within a short time a city ordinance regulating oil drilling and re-establishing the residential district would be under consideration by the city council.

Discussion of the community Christmas tree and the community Christmas fund was taken up at the meeting. The Parent-Teacher association and the pastors of the various churches are to be placed on a special committee in the matter, it was reported at the meeting. All churches, clubs, civic groups and the city are co-operating in distributing Christmas cheer to the needy in Huntington Beach this year.

C. G. Boster is the chairman of the Christmas committee of the chamber of commerce. School children of the grammar grades are staging a drive for old clothes and food for poor families. The P. T. A. is sponsoring the drive being made by the school children.

Preliminary arrangements were made yesterday for the regular monthly meeting of the chamber of commerce. C. P. Pann, chairman of the entertainment and program committee, will be in charge of the meeting.

I. WEINER RETURNS

The principal speaker of the hour was the Rev. George A. Burlingame, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Santa Ana. He addressed the Kiwanians on the responsibility of the men of today to the rising generation. Burlingame spoke in place of the Rev. George Warner, of Santa Ana, who was unable to be present.

Two new members, Tom Yeats and Coy Long, were welcomed into the club by Dr. Jesse Chilton. A report on the action by the chamber of commerce along the lines suggested by the club in placing proper signs at the airport was read by President Hardy, in which assurance of co-operation was expressed by Ray E. Leach, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The meeting is to be held as usual in the farm center room in the Anaheim union high school, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

150 Tons Of Persimmons Are Shipped

FULLERTON, Dec. 13.—Up to the present time 150 tons of persimmons have been shipped from the local packing house. It was announced today by J. M. Alcorn, president of the Central Orange County Persimmon Growers' association.

The season will continue until January, according to Alcorn. Several cars have been shipped recently from this city to the east and several more cars are expected to be shipped. The entire crop from Southern California will total approximately 550 tons, Alcorn stated, and he predicts this amount will be doubled next year, judging from conditions over the entire persimmon growing district.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY HIGH WATER

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 13.—Serious damage is threatened to the Sparr bathhouse at Corona Del Mar, it was reported here today. Recent high water has swept across the sandy point upon which the bathhouse is located and has carried away the board walk and other improvements on the property, according to Capt. T. W. Sheffield, who is in charge of the property.

The high tides and currents through the channel entrance have removed the sand near the building, Sheffield reports. The repair of the old west jetty and the construction of the jetty at the east of the harbor entrance are changing the currents in the harbor entrance, according to reports.

INSTALL EXCHANGE HEADS WEDNESDAY

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 13.—Lawrence Collins, past president of the Long Beach Exchange club, will induct the new officers of the local Exchange club here tomorrow. Collins was president of the Long Beach organization at the time his group sponsored the local club.

S. F. Allison, of Los Angeles, will be the speaker of the day tomorrow. The meeting is to be held at the Southern Seas club. James Collins, another past president of the Long Beach Exchange club, and other Long Beach members will be present at the installation ceremonies. Eugene Fennelon is the new leader of the local group.

ANAHEIM BOY SCOUTS WILL REPAIR TOYS

ANAHEIM, Dec. 13.—Anaheim Boy Scouts, members of troops No. 71 and 72, and all the Girls Scouts of the city have joined in sponsoring a drive for old toys, which they plan to recondition and send as Christmas gifts to the less fortunate children of the city.

Through the co-operation of Superintendent of Schools Melbourne A. Gauer, the drive is being conducted through the grammar schools and already some 200 used playthings have been received it is reported.

The two Boy Scout troops, the Mason's troop No. 71 under John McKim, scoutmaster, and the Legion's troop No. 72 under Kenneth Peck, Scoutmaster, have set to work repairing such toys as are damaged and broken and the Girl Scouts plan to recondition and dress the dolls received.

The toys will be distributed at Christmas time by the Elks and Masonic lodges.

BREA-OLINDA HIGH OPENS BOOK STORE

BREA, Dec. 13.—Students of the Brea-Olinda union high school are enjoying a school book store, which has just been opened there with Miss Nondys Smith, one of the students, in the position of clerk and manager. This store is maintained for the use of the students on a non-profit basis and since the high school does not furnish paper and pencils this year, it has been found to be a great accommodation. A complete line of school supplies is carried and the store is operated strictly on a cash basis. A side line in the store that has been added by members of the Girls' league of the school is home made candles, the receipts from this being turned over to the league treasurer.

The WOMAN'S DAY

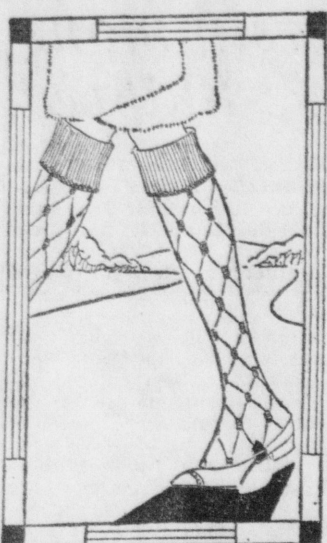

by AILENE SUMNER

"More Beautiful Gifts for Your Christmas Shopping Than Ever Before" read the ads. But one wanders and wanders through the stuffy department store aisles, utterly bewildered by plain "junk," useless, unattractive, unnecessary junk we are asked to buy.

Power boxes that tinkle tunes when the lid is lifted, and who cares? Trees and flowers made from crystal beads, imported for $30, and how are they any better than the wax flowers in glass that used to stand on grandma's mantel? An old windmill carved from wood or bronze, "Lucky Elephants," and china dogs and cats. Nothing so indicative of a nation's prosperity as its Christmas gifts. We seem to have passed the stage when just necessities or even luxuries satisfy. Now we go after eccentricities.

FOR YOUR DAUGHTER?
The parents of little 18-year-old Josephine Haldeman-Julius who entered a "companionate marriage" with their full consent and co-operation a few days ago, must indeed be brave souls. For it is one thing to experiment with new and perhaps dangerous things for oneself, and quite another thing to permit one's children to do it. Nature has so constituted the very essence of parents that caution and complete protection almost always dominate their attitude toward their children. Just ask yourself if you would call a minister, prepare a wedding feast, and stand calmly by while your daughter's life was entrusted to a young man who was perfectly willing to stand for a "companionate marriage," but who manifested no eagerness to go through the old-fashioned kind with its attendant responsibilities of home-building and child-raising.

Now just watch for Josephine's high school to "can" her!

'NOTHER BRIDE

Then there's 23-year-old Dorothy La Verne Bacher of New Jersey who drew up a set of husbandly rules for her fiancé to sign just before they were married. He was to "say his prayers each night on bended knee, particularly asking divine blessing upon our home;" "to undertake all family duties on a 50-50 basis, even unto the care of the children, the doing of the dishes and the general housework;" "to be on time for all appointments;" "to not indulge in intoxicating liquors nor become enslaved to Lady Nicotine nor any of her noxious kin;" and do you know I'm afraid this marriage will not last at all? Any bride so sure of her own viewpoint and judgment that she has the audacity to force a husband to hew to her line of thinking is too autocratic for any home to last with her at the helm.

"DELICATESSEN WIVES"
In much the same mood do I receive the attack of Mrs. John Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, on what she terms "the delicatessen wife," continuing to discuss "man as woman's greatest job," etc. Here again, you have a voice from the past. Scores of "the delicatessen wife" went out of date about the time society generally conceded that a wife who got out of the house once in a while even if she bought baked beans from the delicatessen store for supper, was an infinitely better wife than the old-fashioned one who apologized every time she stuck her nose out of doors, even if she did serve a sumptuous roast of beef for supper. As for scoring "delicatessen food," there's another moth-ridden notion. Delicatessen food is as well cooked, as nutritious and palatable as most of it cooked in individual kitchens.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

Of course there is nothing lovelier than true golden hair, and the girl who possesses it can count herself as one of the very lucky ones. She should do everything she can to keep it truly exquisite in its brilliance of tone, which means of course, to keep her scalp in good health and give her hair that best of all tonics, exposure to the sun itself.

But what of the girl whose hair is on the golden side, but not really the pure color? Well, there are a number of tricks she can play. If her hair is brownish rather than gold because it is oily, then she can use the juice of a lemon in the rinse water after a shampoo, preferably having the rinse water warm, and letting the hair soak for some time in it. By the way, this should be the fourth rinsing, a final one when all the soap has been rinsed away.

Or she can use henna in two different ways. The first is to mix one ounce of powdered Egyptian henna with three ounces of powdered castle soap, use enough of this to make a stiff lather over the wet hair and rub this lather into the scalp for five minutes. The other is to make a paste of henna and hot water, apply this to the scalp hot, letting it stay on three to five minutes before washing off.

Or, she can use a little pure peroxide in the final cool rinse—a tablespoon to a basin is quite enough. Drying the hair in the sun is the best bleach of all for health as well as beauty. But where the hair needs stronger bleaching than sunlight, try lemon or henna, or even peroxide with water.

Betty Jane—There is something lacking in your system that causes your nails to be so soft that they break off. Try buffing them several times a day to keep the blood circulating under them, as that will help to nourish them. A tonic in which there are phosphates and iron might be all that is needed to correct the trouble, but you had better ask your doctor about this first.

Blonde—In the last rinse after a shampoo, try lemon juice and baking soda to bleach your hair. The proportions are two tablespoons of juice, a half teaspoonful of soda to half a gallon of water.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Where's Santa Claus?" wee Clowney cried. And then a toymshop man replied, "Oh, he'll be out here shortly, now. He's right inside the gate. I'll knock, and bring him forth, don't fear. And you'll be glad when he is here." "Please hurry up," the Tinymites cried, "Cause we can hardly wait."

Up to the gate the queer man went, and about a minute's time was spent in knocking very loudly. Then the gate swung open wide. The Tinymites stared in awe at all the wondrous things they saw. Then Scouty said, "Well, that's just fine! Shall we walk right inside?"

But then, what happened made them pause. Before their eyes stood Santa Claus. He walked out of the open gate. His face spread in a grin. "Hello there, Tinymites," he said. "You make me happy as can be by coming here to help me with my work. Won't you come in?"

"We're glad to meet you," Carpy said, and pulled his hat right off his head. "We've come to help you make your toys, and do just as we're told." When Santa saw this Tinymite take off his hat to be polite, he said, "Now put your hat back on before you catch a cold."

Then Santa got down on his knees, exclaiming, "Come, shake hands with me. You'll find that I will be real kind, and always treat you right." The Tinymites rushed up and shook his hand, and liked his friendly look. And, at the same time, Santa seemed to like each Tinymite.

"And now," old Santa said, "Let's go inside where I can quickly show you lots of work that you can do. There's plenty, goodness knows. We'll have to make a lot of toys and things for little girls and boys. Don't worry 'bout your little suits. I'll give you working clothes."

Many Animal Tales Are Written

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

A short time ago I told all lovers of feline charms of some books having to do with cats. There are yet more!

Christopher Morley has written a whimsical, humorous story called "I Know a Secret," in which a cat is most prominent. There's a business-like snail in the book, and others. It is for older boys and girls who like their amusement too. Doubleday, Page and company are the publishers, and Jeannette War-muth is the illustrator.

Then there is "The Janitor's Cat," by Theodore Acland Harper, in collaboration with Winifred Harper, illustrated by J. Erwin Porter (D. Appleton and company). I remember Mr. Harper as the author of "The Mushroom Boy," a nicely imaginative story for young readers. This time his story is of a cat which lives in the basement of a book store and meets the story book people in the quiet evenings. Quite an erudite and well-informed cat does he become! In fact, he is almost a rival book-reviewer with his comments on books which I am thankful to say are not cat-like in the general acceptance of that term.

There are other stories in which animals play leading roles of which I must tell you. "Peppi the Duck," written and illustrated by Rhea Wells (Doubleday, Page and company) is one of the most delightful. It is for little children, and tells the story of a little duckling whose home was at the foot of an Alpine mountain. At the end it is discovered that his tail had a curl in it. And that meant something. It meant that he was a drake and there is a most amusing picture of him fully indulging in masculine vanity.

"Gay Neck," is the story of a pigeon by Dhan Gopal Mukerji, illustrated by Boris Artyzbasheff (E. P. Dutton and company). It is for older readers than "Peppi," and is a biography of a pigeon, born in Calcutta, well-educated, a war hero, a romancer. It is worth while.

"Sambo and Snitch," by Alger-non Blackwood, illustrated by Audrey Teago (D. Appleton and company), is again a story for younger readers. Sambo is a little boy, Snitch a little lizard. At the end of the book, Snitch goes to bed for his winter's sleep, but it is to be hoped he will continue book activity after his rest.
"Mickey and the Monkeys," by Victorine Kirk, illustrated by Christopher Rule (The Viking Press), is a jolly, fantastic story with its setting in Monkeyland. That holds promises in itself.
Now I will make a promise. Next time I will tell you of some new dog stories.

ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

Spirited Talk on Java And the Javanese Interests Ebell

To all appearances, it was a tender, lovely island princess who yesterday stood on the stage at Ebell auditorium, and addressed the assembled clubwomen upon "Java and the Javanese." For Madame VanBever Boorde, charming young American woman, who is the wife of Captain J. Engelbert VanBever Boorde, founder of the Dutch East India Aviation corps, spent much time in Java during his life-time, chose to don the brief bodice and batik sarong of a princess' costume, in which to address the club.

The effect was very charming, for the costume was completed by many jewels, a narrow silken sash and the heel-less straw sandals worn by a little princess in the compound of her home. The address was one of the most interesting travel talks ever given before the club, for Madame VanBever Boorde gave it with an intimacy that seemed to make her the center of a group of admiring friends rather than a stranger addressing an audience of strangers.

She spoke from a personal standpoint, relating details of the islands of the Dutch East Indies, where life was filled with interest to a foreign-educated young American girl. In discussing the language of the country, the speaker stated that it was extremely difficult to learn, especially since there were three different forms—the High Javanese in which the servants class addresses the superiors, the Low Javanese, or the form used in response, and the third classification, which is the form employed between equals. This was productive of so many complications, that the Malay has been adopted as the official language.

The intricate process of making the batik for which Java is famous was described, and examples of the work shown. Madame VanBever Boorde also spoke of the kris making for which the island is equally noted, the two forming industries peculiar to Java. The kris, introduced by the Hindus, and formerly carried by all the natives, has come to be a sign of nobility, as the upper classes are the only ones carrying the weapon. Some of them are very beautifully chased and encrusted with jewels, she declared.

In describing the process of making the batik, she told of the preliminary treatment of the squares of white cotton, the suggestion of soakings in castor oil and scrubbing with soap; the tracing of the intricate designs in free hand, the waxing of the pattern where the dyes are not to take effect, and the subsequent removal of that wax and its application on other parts of the design until all the various colors are transferred.

Skill in designing and fashioning the fabrics has been transmitted through the generations, until the batik of today are highly artistic and beautiful, and yet the women making them receive but three or four cents a day.

In discussing the race problem which faces the governments of such lands, the speaker declared that Holland faced no such problem as does England for instance, in as colonies, for the mixture of Dutch and native blood in Java, has resulted in Eurasians of splendid character in whom were blended all the high qualities of both bloods. Holland, she explained, had early in its government of Java, made all the children resulting from mixed marriages, the equal of the full-blood Dutch.

The latter half of her talk was illustrated by pictures of the island, thrown upon the screen so recently installed in the clubhouse. This showed the tropical beauty of Batavia, the capital city, the island and botanical gardens, said to be the most beautiful and extensive in the world, charming scenes of native family life, rice planting, and some of the huge volcanoes with which Java is dotted. An eruption of Krakatoa, she declared, would make Vesuvius in eruption, look and sound like a pop-gun!

Many of the pictures showed details of the huge Temple of a 10th century Buddha which was uncovered 100 years ago, in the heart of the island, and has been carefully excavated. It rises from a pyramid 500 feet square, and in its details of carving and design is truly a work of art, rising skyward in five terraces.

The interesting talk was followed by tea served in the peacock room by young women of the American Legion auxiliary, who had on display, a collection of attractive and useful articles made by disabled soldiers.

Prefacing the address, was a short interval devoted to business, during which Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Ebell president, announced the date of Thursday, December 29, as the one reserved for Ebell's young people. A party for children up to the ninth grade in school, will occupy the afternoon hours, and in the evening, the older young people will be entertained at a dance for which especially fine music has been engaged.

The final January meeting of the society will be held in view of the presentation by Ebell of Richard Haliburton, famous young traveler and writer, on the afternoon of January 31.

Miss Sumner will receive informally at The Sumner Shop on Wednesday afternoon, and at 3 o'clock there will be a brief talk on the works of contemporary artists whose pictures are hung therein. The new gallery is presented at this time as a permanent addition to the art of Santa Ana, and a cordial invitation is extended to those who appreciate good pictures to see this fine collection, which represents a number of our best known artists. 308 No. Broadway. —Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling B. Tippin and son Ralph, who have lingered in Santa Ana for a few days' visit with Mrs. Tippin's mother, Mrs. Adam Walkinshaw, 438 South Broadway, en route from their Fresno home to Orlando, Fla., were complimented last night at a delightful dinner party planned by a group of relatives.

Guests gathered at the Walkinshaw home, where many scarlet poinsettias lent a holiday atmosphere, and where a chicken dinner was served, the contents of well-filled baskets adding other delicious articles to the menu. AT THE THEATER

Billie Dove, star of "The Love Mart," current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
Gilbert Roland, the son of a bull-fighter, was born in Chihuahua, Mex., which looks like a sneeze, sounds like a college cheer and produces hairless dogs without the aid of deplimators.

Nevertheless, here he is at the Yost Broadway theater in the film "The Love Mart."

Gilbert is done in the Spanish manner and all which that implies. An excellent and romantic young type of Mediterranean architecture. Highly decorative, but sound.

Young Gilbert himself was schooled in the treading art. All his practicing was done on goats. He had a little cloak, a little sword and a mighty ambition. Goats don't play the game. Books on bullfighting etiquette were just so much breakfast food to them. They ate the young goat-herd's cloak and butted from both ends simultaneously. This isn't done by bulls of the better families.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Surprise! Surprise! It's Taka-Chance at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight.

It really depends on just how impressionable you are. Unless you are the most susceptible of movie fans, it is hardly likely that your jaw will drop in speechless amazement at any of the proceedings on the long three-hour program arranged for your delectation this week. On the other hand, you are not likely to be caught napping during the expose of the Taka-Chance Apartments, floor by floor and room by room, on the stage—and certainly not while the feature is being screened.

And the feature picture is really one of the most entertaining of the year. While it is not what

WEST END THEATER

"For Ladies Only," which comes to the West End theater tonight, is a colorful tale of modern American office life.

The story hinges on a clash of wills between the hero, Clifford Coleman, and his secretary, Ruth Barton. Fun is introduced in the persons of Gerty Long, the switch-board operator, and the office boy, Joe Doakes.

Coleman, the office manager of the Amalgamated Hallock company, is a woman-hater. When he is installed in the new office he almost promptly fires the girls; then his secretary plans her revenge, and—she gets it. He falls in love with her.

The cast includes such well-known players as Jacqueline Logan and John Bowers.

TEMPLE THEATER

Reed Howes, known to Santa Ana audiences for his splendid work in "Lightning Romance," "Geared to Go," "Super Speed," "The Courageous Fool," "The Snob Buster" and "Youth's Gamble," will be seen at the Temple theater for the last time tonight.

It tells the story of a young man by the name of Earle Thorpe Jr., who, in a commendable effort to bring about a reconciliation between his father and the father of the girl he loves, drives against tremendous odds to ultimate victory, a car the parts of which are manufactured by his own father and the girl's.

method of tripping up the subconscious... that hidden brain where black memories are often stored to pop out in abject fears or sudden hates... bringing it out in the open and rendering it harmless, Dr. Muhl declared.

Talking in one's sleep doesn't compare with automatic writing for disclosing one's innermost secrets, it seems. Repressed impressions of events occurring even during the first year of babyhood have thus been brought to light by the psychiatrist.

The conscious mind is constantly censoring and repressing the ideas bothering the subconscious mind, the doctor asserted, and will not let it reveal them. Our ordinary thinking brain acts like a policeman who takes care of all our reflex actions, heart beating, breathing, etc., and also stores memory.

So in order to "dig up the past" and rid it of its hidden bugaboos it is necessary to divert the attention of the person while the physician probes his sub-conscious memory, Dr. Muhl said.

To do this the woman physician has her patient read aloud some "thriller" guaranteed to "hold the reader," meanwhile she suspends his arm in a sling so that he may write with the least exertion possible and then she piles his subconscious mind with whispered queries, "Why? why? why?"

The patient will write, while he reads unaware of what he is doing. But the sub-conscious mind is a tricky imp and loves to play tricks, the psychologist explained. It will often write a long foolish jargon. Sometimes from ten to 100 attempts are necessary before the hidden memory impression which is driving the patient into a psychosis is uncovered.

More than 200 persons have been psycho-analyzed by Dr. Muhl by this process and no information accepted except what she could check up from outside sources. From this variety of experiences and long list of authentic cures, Dr. Muhl considers that auto-writing deserves a high place among methods of mental treatments.

In removing the repressions worrying the subconscious mind, automatic writing has all the advantages of hypnosis and none of its disadvantages, Dr. Muhl claims. It makes it unnecessary to shock the patient by putting his conscious mind "to sleep" during the process of exploring his memory as in the case of hypnosis.

Thinks Smith Can Beat Anti-Saloon League Candidate

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 13.—Gov. Al Smith, of New York, as the Democratic standard bearer, would defeat any Republican nominated on the Anti-Saloon league platform for the presidency, according to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the Columbia university.

Dr. Butler is here with his wife to spend a few days visiting friends and to make two speeches. He is nationally known as an advocate for repeal of the 18th amendment.

"The west," said the noted educator, "will not present a solid front either for or against prohibition in the coming election."

If Al Smith is nominated, his election would be practically assured should the Republicans fail to carry New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, Butler said.

"The south still is solid and will remain that way," he added.

16 In Sing Sing Awaiting Death

OSSENING, N. Y., Dec. 13.—Sing Sing prison's deathhouse population is near a record.

Joseph Lefkowitz, east side clothing merchant, sentenced in Brooklyn to die for plotting the death of Benjamin Goldstein, his 20-year-old partner, brought the list of persons awaiting death in the electric chair to 16.

Lefkowitz and others have been sentenced to die the week of January 9, but in all except three cases appeals automatically delay execution.

Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, the only woman in the deathhouse, and Henry Judd Gray, convicted of killing the woman's husband, are among the members of the little community, isolated from the other prisoners and the object of a special guard to prevent any slip in the sentences of the court.

The sentence of Mrs. Snyder and Gray and that of Charles J. Doran, convicted of a murder during a holdup in Albany, were upheld recently by the court of appeals.

FAMOUS NOVELIST VELMA WEST KILLED BECAUSE SHE WAS REPR

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—When Velma West struck her husband Edward, with a hammer out at Perry, Ohio, she wasn't striking to kill him—she was striking at "everything that tortured her in Perry," in the belief of Homer Crov, novelist.

She was breaking the chains, he believes, which young husbands put upon young wives when they take them from their own environment suddenly and attempt to make them conform to the life the husband had been living.

When such things are done there is always danger, Crov believes. Crov, one of America's best known novelists, famous for his tragic tale of small-town life "West of the Water Tower," has only compassion for the "snip of a blonde," whom Eddie West captured from her easy Cleveland environment, and who killed him after a year of married life.

In Real Life
The novelist admitted to the United Press that he has had the unusual experience of seeing his best-loved fiction character, the little girl named Bee Chew in "West of the Water Tower," come to life in Velma West.

Crov refused to be astonished by what Velma West has done. "I looked upon her as being Bee Chew, repressed and seeking escape through a hammer," he said.

"We can't escape from our repressions. They are our subconscious and our subconscious is seven-eighths of us. It is our 'iceberg'."

"The little one-eighth of Velma's mind above the surface had been trying to fight the seven-eighths underneath."

"All of a sudden, the seven-eighths got control, picked up the hammer, and—we all read it in the papers."

"When Velma struck at her husband, she was striking at everything which had tortured her in Perry, Ohio."

Parallels Case
The parallel between Bee Chew and Velma is a real one, Bee had lived in different cities, traveled, seen something of the world. When she was brought into this small town, she didn't belong to the right church and didn't know the right people. They gossiped about her, raised their eyebrows when she walked down the street.

"Bee might have done the same thing that Velma West did—except that she found her expression in a child. She took it out in looking after the child. Expressed her self in that way, and her steam boiler burst in a different manner. She might have done the same thing and been considered a bad girl and a dangerous criminal woman."

"The average crime involving a man and woman is supposed to be started by another woman, or money. But down below the surface is repression."

"People quarrel off the tops of their minds. This often sets prosecutors to pursuing false—if serious."

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 13.—Miss Eva Joan Rogers, 22, of Los Angeles, is on her way to Champaign, Ill., with a ticket furnished her by the Travelers Aid society.

She arrived here en route to the home of a sister in Champaign to spend the Christmas holidays.

While window shopping between trains, she told police, she met an affable young man who told her he was a stranger in St. Louis.

With her consent, the young man took charge of her grips and left to check them in a restaurant. He never returned, Miss Rogers said.

The grips contained all of her spare clothing for the trip, her railroad ticket and $25 in cash.

FAMOUS NOVELIST VELMA WEST KILLED BECAUSE SHE WAS REPR

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—When Velma West struck her husband Edward, with a hammer out at Perry, Ohio, she wasn't striking to kill him—she was striking at "everything that tortured her in Perry," in the belief of Homer Crov, novelist.

She was breaking the chains, he believes, which young husbands put upon young wives when they take them from their own environment suddenly and attempt to make them conform to the life the husband had been living.

When such things are done there is always danger, Crov believes. Crov, one of America's best known novelists, famous for his tragic tale of small-town life "West of the Water Tower," has only compassion for the "snip of a blonde," whom Eddie West captured from her easy Cleveland environment, and who killed him after a year of married life.

In Real Life
The novelist admitted to the United Press that he has had the unusual experience of seeing his best-loved fiction character, the little girl named Bee Chew in "West of the Water Tower," come to life in Velma West.

Crov refused to be astonished by what Velma West has done. "I looked upon her as being Bee Chew, repressed and seeking escape through a hammer," he said.

"We can't escape from our repressions. They are our subconscious and our subconscious is seven-eighths of us. It is our 'iceberg'."

"The little one-eighth of Velma's mind above the surface had been trying to fight the seven-eighths underneath."

"All of a sudden, the seven-eighths got control, picked up the hammer, and—we all read it in the papers."

"When Velma struck at her husband, she was striking at everything which had tortured her in Perry, Ohio."

Parallels Case
The parallel between Bee Chew and Velma is a real one, Bee had lived in different cities, traveled, seen something of the world. When she was brought into this small town, she didn't belong to the right church and didn't know the right people. They gossiped about her, raised their eyebrows when she walked down the street.

"Bee might have done the same thing that Velma West did—except that she found her expression in a child. She took it out in looking after the child. Expressed her self in that way, and her steam boiler burst in a different manner. She might have done the same thing and been considered a bad girl and a dangerous criminal woman."

"The average crime involving a man and woman is supposed to be started by another woman, or money. But down below the surface is repression."

"People quarrel off the tops of their minds. This often sets prosecutors to pursuing false—if serious."

THE WORLD'S GREATEST

B. & P. W. CLUB HEARS ADDRESS ON NEAR EAST

"The Business Woman in the Near East" was the theme of a talk presented yesterday before the Santa Ana Business and Professional Women, at St. Ann's Inn, by Miss Mary Wallace Weir, active member of the Pasadena club, and was a subject with which the speaker was thoroughly conversant through several years spent as a member of the staff of Constantinople Woman's college, and as a present member of the Near East College association of this country.

Her knowledge of the subject was transmitted to the interested business women in one of the most interesting talks of their year of programs. A talk which she prefaced with a glimpse of the countries of the Near East and their rapidly changing boundary lines. The intense nationalism of these countries with their age-old customs and costumes, their religious fanaticisms and their political status for the women, was dwelt upon, Miss Weir explaining that their nationalism was difficult for us of a new world, to understand fully.

The opportunity which is coming to the various small nations, to gain a college education such as is so easily possible for those in other countries, is breaking down the old walls of prejudice and racial customs in an amazing manner, as brought out in the talk.

Of the countries discussed by the speaker, she characterized Bulgaria as being especially democratic, and told several intimate little happenings in which the prince himself figured prominently. She declared that Bulgarian women are outstanding examples of progress in educational fields.

Constantinople was long the leading college in the Near East, but others have now been established at Beirut and Smyrna in Turkey, Beirut in Syria, Sofia in Bulgaria, and Athens in Greece. The one at Smyrna was formerly international, but is now almost wholly Turkish.

Constantinople, for many years, boasted the leading colleges, Robert college for men, and Constantinople Woman's college. The American University of Beirut draws students from a tremendous territory, according to the speaker, and these remarkable institutions offer courses in journalism, home economics, music, art and drama, as well as in various other professions.

Description of the institutions was interlarded with interesting personal experiences of Miss Weir. One particularly vivid tale being the hospitality of one of her Turkish pupils. The young girl entertained her in the fascinating home with its strange customs, one of which was the response to the muezzin call to prayer. In this home was one spacious chamber wherein was suspended from the ceiling, an inner room, visited by the family and pilgrims but once a year, and containing a holy basket in which, wrapped in seven silken veils, reposed one single hair from the beard of the prophet—Mohammed.

Miss Weir declared that the alert intelligence of these Eastern young people was being best served by the colleges, which are an American investment in international good will, for all are maintained by America. The eagerness of the women of the east to direct their lives in accordance with those of western women, was indicated by a request which came to her recently, for the constitution and other material of the general federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, for it is the desire of the young woman who made the request, to launch such an organization among the business and professional women of Turkey.

Miss Weir promised to return at a future date, and talk to the clubwomen again upon her experiences in the East and upon the work being accomplished by the Near East College association of America.

Several guests were present to enjoy the program, which had been planned by Miss Hazel Bemus and members of the December committee. Miss Bemus announced that next Monday's luncheon would be an informal Christmas party, and that each member would be expected to bring a 25c gift for the Christmas exchange. The question of alternating the fondly luncheons with evening meetings was considered and Mrs. Laura Murray, president, asked that the members be ready to express their views at a future meeting.

Joe and his cast—his straight jacket if you wish to call it so, has a deep affinity for Christmas Seals. Had it not been for the funds available in Joe's town, he would have gone through life crippled and deformed from a tuberculosis spine. Now, thanks to the care he is receiving, in another year he will be straight and strong. The state quota of $350,000 this year means only the smallest tax for you to help purchase the gift of health for these little folks who ask you to help them make the fight. PRISONERS AT FOLSOM TO BE WATCHED XMAS

By CLEM WHITAKER
Staff Correspondent, Santa Ana Register

FOLSOM STATE PRISON, Dec. 13.—Here, in California place of banishment for its habitual criminals, where the last holiday party ended in bloody warfare, with a death toll of 13 and some 30 others wounded, Christmas will be celebrated "under wraps," if not under arms.

In Folsom prison's great horse-shoe enclosure, piled high on the rocks above the American river, there is tenseness, excitement and alert expectancy. But it is the ominous tenseness of a prison just freed from martial law, not the pre-Christmas bustle and excitement characteristic of the holiday season.

The Yuletide celebration this year at Folsom will be strictly a "home affair," according to Warden Court Smith, with all visitors barred.

While the regular prison routine will give way to a holiday program, vigilance of the guards will be increased, rather than diminished, to guard against a recurrence of the outbreak that wrecked the Thanksgiving Day fete.

But to some of the prisoners, at least, the day will be a red letter one. It will mark their first holiday meal of the season, for the Thanksgiving Day feast was prepared but not served. It was while the meal was in preparation, in fact, that the pistol shots marking the start of the sensational riot rang out.

Warden Smith announced that the usual Christmas meal at the prison will be served—roast pork, dressing, fresh vegetables, pie and "all the fixins'," except for turkey.

In the famous school-room and moving picture house, where the 1200 convicts were held under subjection by six others during the Thanksgiving Day break, and where 10 of the prisoners dropped fatally wounded under the fire of guards on the outside, the prisoners probably will be assembled again on Christmas Day for their prison celebration, Warden Smith said today.

But the bullet-riddled moving picture screen, grim evidence of the terrific battle that climaxed the last holiday, must be replaced by a new screen if the convicts are to enjoy their usual theater party. Efforts are now being made to secure a new screen in time for the celebration.

The piano and organ, both damaged when the theater was made a barricade during the attempted wholesale prison delivery, must also be prepared if Christmas carols are to be sung in Folsom this year.

Practically all other evidences of the death-dealing mutiny are being removed. Windows, crashed by rifle fire and by the convicts during the tear-bomb attack, when fresh air was at a premium, are rapidly being replaced.

The Salvation Army and other religious organizations will be allowed to distribute their Christmas gifts of candy and tobacco, the warden said, but no presents will be received from friends or relatives of convicts. The means used in smuggling arms to the desperadoes who led the mutiny are yet unknown, but prison authorities are taking no chances on someone sending in a "loaded" package at the holiday season.

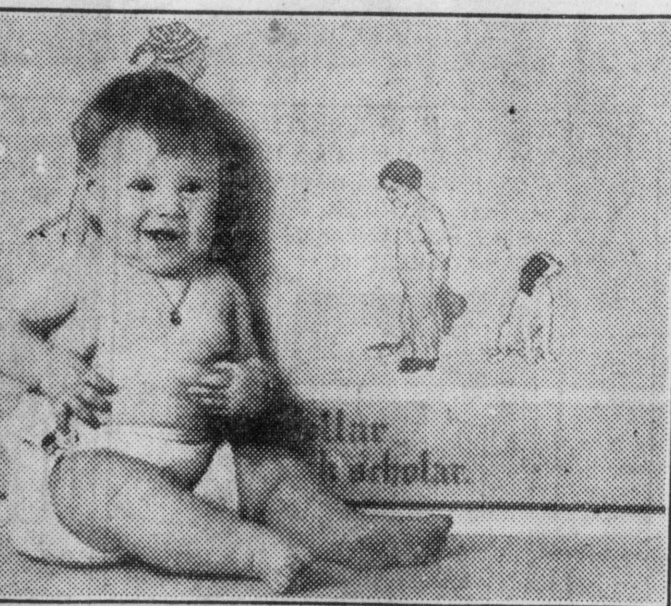

AGRICULTURAL GAS RATES ARE SLASHED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—As a result of informal negotiations with the state railroad commission, the Coast Counties Gas company has announced a voluntary reduced rate for agricultural energy and power.

The new rates are slightly above those of the Pacific Gas and Electric company. It was estimated by railroad commission engineers that they would prove a saving to the farmers of between $250,000 and $300,000 annually.

Infant Care

Mothers, you can't start too early to establish a child's serene and tranquil disposition. Even an infant can have a happy, fitless state of uninterrupted health. What will help do this? A simple, purely vegetable product as old as you are: plain Castoria.

A few drops of Castoria will settle all uneasiness in a jiffy. Will dispel colic or ward off constipation, and just as surely check diarrhea.

In real sickness, call a physician. But many physicians urge only Castoria for those little childish disorders that need nothing more. You need never be afraid to give pure Castoria. It is safe and perfectly harmless, for it contains no paregoric, no opiates, no dope of any kind. At least, this is true of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria—and that is the kind doctors tell you always to buy.

Fletcher's Castoria is fine for any child. All children love to take it. Delicious tasting, and as good as it tastes. Just look for the Fletcher signature on the package and you will know you have the genuine and pure Castoria.

PROSPECTOR IS RESCUED FROM DEATH IN SNOW

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 13.—Only the heroic efforts of an Indian woman saved the life of John Kolas, prospector of the Mystery Lake, Manitoba, district, who, lost in the northland, was discovered in a partially frozen state, the icy, sub-zero temperature.

While out prospecting, Kolas became lost, and in order to ascertain his bearings, he took off his mackinaw, left it lying beside his axe and wandered off, intending to return in a few minutes. Apparently he wandered too far and darkness overtook him before he got back to where he had left his coat.

Then followed a night of misery, as he wandered about in the 30 below zero temperature. Despite his strenuous efforts to keep moving, the biting cold eventually overcame him and he collapsed, unconscious. The next morning the Indian woman, out setting snares, came upon the staggering tracks of a man. Sensing something wrong, she followed the twisting trail and finally came upon Kolas, badly frozen and delirious. Loading him on a toboggan, she pulled him to her tiny cabin, where she treated him for frost bites with Indian remedies.

It is expected he will recover, although it will be many weeks before he will again be able to face the icy weather of the northern region.

MARY AND DOUG HAVE UNIQUE VILLA

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 13.—Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford will have all the advantages of foreign beauty and atmosphere this summer in a seaside villa which they plan to erect at Solano Beach, San Diego county. It is announced here.

The two stars will reside in the most novel cliff house ever built in this country, William Cameron Menzies, the designer, declared. The beach house is to follow in design those found along Swiss and Italian lakes and will present a unique engineering problem, in that it is to be supported by its own weight on the side of a cliff.

The beach property is near Rancho Santa Fe, where Fairbanks is developing a huge ranch in the atmosphere of early Southern California. He is spending time between pictures at the hacienda there.

NO PARDON FOR BABY'S SLAYER, SAYS GOVERNOR

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 13.—Claude Pierson, convicted of the kidnapping and murder of Baby Lloyd Keet, in May, 1927, and serving a 35-year sentence in Missouri state penitentiary, will not be pardoned as long as Sam A. Baker is governor, it was announced at the governor's mansion.

Baby Keet, son of a Springfield banker, was kidnapped when he was one year old. Nine days later the baby's body was found in an old well into which it had been thrown by the kidnapers, who sought a ransom of $6000 from J. Holland Keet, the baby's father.

Pierson was captured and later confessed to the crime. He denied leadership in the plot with his implicated accomplices to extort money from the child's father.

Three times Pierson was taken by mobs and strung up in efforts to make him tell where the baby was. Three times he was cut down just before life was extinct.

Authorities were at a loss to account why Baby Keet was killed and thrown into a well. The baby's father repeatedly promised to pay the ransom demanded and had assured the kidnapers of immunity.

It was thought the perpetrators of the crime had perverted the child when officers searching for the baby drew close to their quarry.

Wide publicity given the case resulted in the law pertaining to kidnapping being revolutionized and many states making kidnapping a capital offense.

Legion Dry Poll Up To Executive Body, Says Leader

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 13.—No action will be taken on Com. E. E. Spafford's suggestion that the American Legion take a national poll on the prohibition question until the national executive committee of the Legion meets here in January, it was indicated at Legion headquarters.

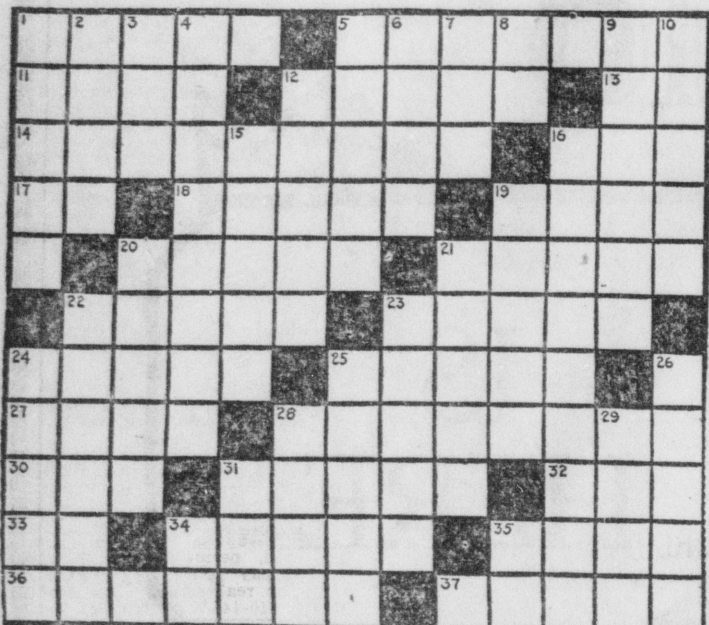

Spafford, here attending a meeting of state commanders and adjutants, said he had no intention of pushing his proposal for the poll.

"I merely made a tentative suggestion," he said. "The national executive committee can do as it pleases about the matter."

Spafford put forward his plan in a speech in New York.

JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten

Lockwell was puzzled by the invitation. He didn't know the handwriting, and the signature gave him no clue to the identity of the girl who had penned the note. Giving it up at last, he tossed the missive on the table and took up the study of next day's lessons. In pajamas, before retiring, he exercised his arm. "This wing seems almost all right again," he said.

Jack awoke in the night with a strong feeling that something was happening. The shaded lamp was lighted, and Sinnott, standing by the table, was reading the invitation.

Restraining a desire to spring up and call his roommate a sneaking spy, Lockwell pretended to sleep on breathing regularly. Presently Sinnott turned out the lamp.

"I told you to look out for that cuckoo," said Darling, after hearing about it. "Are you going to the barn dance tonight, Jack?" "My natural curiosity won't let me stay away," was the answer. "I want to find out who the Witch is." A customer supplied Lockwell with the rig of an Indian chief, including a feather war-bonnet and a rubber tomahawk and knife.

SOMETHING TO BE DONE

We are glad that a real revolt is being started against the present plan of admissions to the freshman class of the University of California and of judging the high schools on the basis of the grades furnished and made by particular students. The heads of our educational institutions throughout the state are really more capable of seeing the defects in the policy which has been adopted than those, maybe, who have put it in operation. This is not a reflection upon those at the head of the state university. They are confronted with a problem of their own. Their facilities are inadequate to the great numbers that come up for admission and they are looking around for some way to reduce them and taking an arbitrary method. It is not strange that they fall short of an ideal.

Superintendent Cranston of our own city referred to the plan as an "aristocracy of brains." We are well aware that he did not do this in the sense that he would object to anything that was a real aristocracy of real brains but he recognizes as do most educators that no single arbitrary standard of examination or requirement has yet been devised by which the amount or the quality of brains can be determined at any one time and this is more particularly true in the developing years of the adolescent.

The young men and young women of California should have the fairest chance in the world for advanced education and we can conceive of few things that would be greater tragedies than to permit a few people to erect hurdles which these young people must leap which are erected primarily because the facilities on the other side of the hurdle are limited, but which result in the denial to a vast number of the fairest chance.

The real aristocracy of brains we should bow down to. When we are in the presence of genius it is all right to take off our hat, but unfortunately brains and genius are not always, and in fact very infrequently, discovered by examinations which are set for that purpose and which are made applicable to all people.

It is very possible that the Dr. Lynn Hough would be unable to pass an examination that Thomas Edison would think that every intelligent man should be qualified to pass and we are very certain that Mr. Edison could not pass an examination prepared by Dr. Hough and the two of them combined probably could not prepare an examination that would determine the power of intellectual attainment or capacity of someone whose genius and talents were entirely remote, in fields in which they are unfamiliar.

No examination of the young can possibly adjust itself when given at the same age period to the difference in the time of development in the minds of youth. We hope that this group will work out a wiser way and if it requires larger expenditures of money for our higher institutions of learning in California certainly it will be the most profitable investment which we can possibly make.

PRESIDENT'S FIRST IMPRESSION
BEST

According to the news dispatches today, it is proposed that an amount be expended for the expansion of our navy that is unprecedented. Over a billion dollars is proposed to spend on cruisers, submarines, and battleships within the next five years, which is a challenge, such as heretofore has never been given, to Great Britain, Japan and other countries to throw all restraint aside and to start on an expenditure in preparation for war such as has never been known.

In the light of the conferences which have been held in Geneva, and the effort being put forth to reduce armies and navies plus the distance that America is from Europe and plus also the development in the power of the ships of the air we cannot look upon this proposed expenditure of the money of the people with a great deal of enthusiasm. This is the hour when the prosperity of the nation should demand the greatest appropriation, amounting almost to prodigality, for such internal improvements as flood controls, great national highways and internal improvements which would cause an emulation in all other countries for enterprises that were really worth while.

There is a species of propaganda being carried on over our country which culminates in such a proposed appropriation to which we should address our attention during the time of its initiation. Money expended in our country for harbors and roads and dams and public buildings and parks and laboratories and surveys and education and a thousand and one other things will not cause one particle of uneasiness in the breast of the most jealous national in other lands.

But for America with a haughty reserve to refuse to participate in peace conferences and then plan on a war-crazy program is to place ourselves as moral leaders in an untenable position. We would not urge that we should not have adequate protection but adequate protection can be had by simply keeping pace with others and at the same time urging a reduction rather than an increase.

Looking around at the needs everywhere, there is one joy that comes through the thought of our national leaders favoring such a program. It proves conclusively that in their judgment we have exhausted supplies of money which at least insure that such enterprises as the flood controls of the Mississippi and the Colorado, and of the needs of harbor improvements such as at San Pedro and Newport should not suffer for the paltry sums which are needed.

The interest alone for one year on the expenditure required for two or three battleships would build and dredge the harbor at Newport, so that it would serve literally hundreds of thousands of people locally and the United States and the Far East in general and its value would increase every year, while seven years after the completion of a battleship, it is practically obsolete, if it isn't practically worthless by developments in other lines even at the time of its construction.

We note in the dispatches that the President's immediate reaction was one of opposition to this program. We believe the President's first reaction can be better trusted than the urgent insistence of the extremely big navy people. In any case we do not believe that Congress will adopt this complete program. It will not go beyond the agreement between Great Britain and Japan of the ratio five-five-three.

Gets Thirty Days Jail
For Doubting the Jury

San Francisco Chronicle

Jury antics have aroused some doubt about the efficacy of that ancient and honorable institution of twelve men good and true, but there is one man whose confidence in the jury has been entirely restored. He is the prisoner in New York who became nervous because the jury stayed out so long and decided to plead guilty and get a lighter sentence. The judge had just finished sentencing him to thirty days for larceny when the jury came back with a verdict of "Not Guilty." Had he stood pat and relied on the twelve judges of the facts who held his fate in their hands the prisoner now would be free. His doubts cost him thirty days, and it serves him right for suspecting the jury of being smart enough to know he was lying.

Fifty Years of Science

Fresno Republican

Nashville, Tennessee, may not be exactly Dayton, Tennessee, but it is close enough to give point to the gathering in Nashville, on the day after this Christmas, of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

And there is still more point to the coincidence because it was just 50 years ago that the association met at Nashville, and under the leadership of men like Thomas H. Huxley, gave an attentive ear to the evidences of evolution as supported by Darwin's observations.

The uproar that we had a year or so ago, about Dayton, was exceeded by the talk a half century ago, of the controversy between science and religion. And today science and religion are both going right ahead, science accumulating knowledge concerning the world and religion soothing the troubled minds of men without doing any serious damage to each other.

But each serves a very useful function in suppressing the follies of the exuberant advocates of the other.

A Real Find

San Diego Union

It has been discovered, by a statistical pearl-diver operating in the sea of facts and figures, that two years and 10 months of experience in systematic saving will make "a confirmed saver" out of the average man. Without pausing to quibble with the statistician over his characteristic carelessness as to definition of terms—a carelessness which is probably an occupational disease—we hasten to remark that here is a pearl of some usefulness. Here are statistics which, authentic or not, can be put to valuable use. If "the average man" doubts the validity of this formula, let him try it. Only by experience can it be proved or disproved.

Let the aforesaid average man undertake a plan of "systematic saving"—no matter how poor the system—and pursue it bitterly and without weakening for two years and 10 months. If at the end of that time he finds himself to be "a confirmed saver"—well and good. The conclusion is thereby verified. But if at the end of that time he still finds himself unconfirmed and unregenerate—fairly well and good, anyway. For he will have two years and 10 months' worth of savings hoarded up.

This is a recommendation which cannot but be valuable if seriously adopted. It may be no profound psychological discovery on habit fixation—or it may actually be revolutionary, so far as we know. Whatever it is, there is profit in it.

Without recourse to statistics, we may add that the man who begins his two years and 10 months today will get a lot more benefit out of it than the man who plans to begin the grind tomorrow—or next New Year's.

URGE LABELS THAT TELL WHAT'S IN COSMETICS

Some years ago specialists in diseases of the skin discovered that hair dyes, face creams and similar preparations used for beautification were in some instances compounded with ingredients likely to have harmful effects on a considerable number of people.

Many hair dyes contained a product to which some people were especially sensitive and to which they responded by the development of blister and eruptions.

Face creams have been reported which contained salts of arsenic, of lead, or of mercury, which may produce serious symptoms when absorbed into the body.

It has appeared to many physicians that it would be highly desirable when such dangerous ingredients were included that they be indicated on the labels.

Most of the legitimate manufacturers of cosmetics, and this includes practically all of the concerns that deal with these products on a large scale, have indicated a willingness to co-operate in any plan that might be devised for securing public safety.

A few, and this involves the manufacturers of one or two hair products and one or two creams, have assumed an attitude of defense which is hardly warranted by the circumstances. Indeed, their attitude is much like that of manufacturers who resisted the passing of the pure food and drugs act without inquiring as to the ultimate good of all concerned. In the end they were compelled to accept legislation without aiding in its formation.

Outside!

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

THE PERFECT MENTAL GOLFER

The winter golfer sits and dreams
Of shots which hold the line,
Of splendid scores, of three's and four's,
And never an eight or nine.

Outside the course is deep with snow,
And cold the wind and keen,
But on goes he from tee to tee
Through fairways verdant green.

And peace is his and joy complete
As mental golf he plays,
For straight and far his long shots are
Throughout the winter days.

And sitting, dreaming, by his fire
His drives are straight and true,
Nor pit nor trap disturbs his nap,
And of putts he takes but two.

And there's never a hook and never a slice
And never a shot that's topped,
In a golfer's dreams, the ball it seems
At the cup is always dropped.

He never lifts for a penalty stroke
From brooks and the running streams,
Never loses a match as he plays from scratch
In his wonderful winter dreams.

So there at his fireside let him play
His mental game till spring,
Let him dream until he gets back on the tee
With the same old awkward swing.

Baron Von Steuben

During the week of November 29th, thousands of Americans of German ancestry will celebrate the 150th anniversary of the landing of General Baron Friedrich William von Steuben in America.

Steuben landed at Portsmouth, N. H., on December 1, 1777, coming to this country at the request of Benjamin Franklin, then Colonial emissary at Paris. He proceeded at once to Valley Forge, where he was appointed inspector-general by George Washington and commissioned with the specific task of introducing order into the American army, which up to that time had been almost without discipline.

American school children who learn about the Hessian troops which England sent to America, should also know the story of Baron von Steuben, who proved an invaluable ally. The baron gave up honorable and lucrative rank in Germany to help the Revolution and asked no reward from America for his services. The great general's splendid work should be honored.

CURRENT COMMENT

By CHESTER H. ROWELL

THE dignified reiteration by Charles E. Hughes of his refusal to be a candidate for President is just what was to have been expected. Not that Mr. Hughes would dislike being President. He was a candidate once, and failed only by a fluke which he would be too wise to make now. But he realizes that his time is past, and that his remaining working years will be better devoted to accumulating a long-delayed competence, with incidental public service. Also, he realizes that his chief supporters in New York were using him for a stalking horse for their other real purposes, and he has too much self-respect to allow himself to be made a victim of that game. So, at the appropriate time and in the appropriate way, he puts an end to the effort to use him. It is an incident creditable in the highest degree to Mr. Hughes—which is more than can be said of some of those who pretended they were for him.

THUS the situation clarifies itself. Men of honor, like President Coolidge, and Mr. Hughes, when they say they are "out," mean it, and will not permit verbal quibblers to put them in a false position. The chief motive for the promotion of meaningless "favorite sons" also disappears. Their purpose was to produce an artificial deadlock and start a programmatic stampede to Coolidge. Whatever the President might have done in the face of a real situation, produced by spontaneous popular demand and a real inability to agree on a candidate, it is now made certain even to the dullest that he will not be a party to any artificial manipulation of the convention to that end. And, if not done artificially, it will not happen at all. This is not a time either of death of other candidates or of a confusing number of them. The withdrawals of the President and of Mr. Hughes make the situation simple.

THERE are three groups of candidates. The first, or "Coolidge group," consisted of Secretary Hoover and Mr. Hughes. It now reduces itself to Hoover alone. The second or "farm bloc group" consists of Lowden and Norris, with Dawes in the background, avowedly not a candidate and supporting Lowden. This group is likely to reduce itself to Vice President Dawes. Norris is not a serious candidate for the nomination, but he is a serious contender for platform commitments and for the active use of the primary. He may win the only thing he is after—which is not the nomination. Lowden will win certain states, and will enter the convention with a considerable block of votes, which he will scarcely succeed in enlarging. The expectation is that he will then throw his votes to the Vice President, in the hope that he may be the more able to secure additional delegates. Thus the second group is likely to reduce itself to Vice President Dawes. The third group consists of the "favorite sons," including, so far, Senators Curtis of Kansas and Willis of Ohio, and Speaker Longworth, also of Ohio. There may be others, mostly stalking horses. Big Bill Thompson, who says he owns Illinois, may have one. There is also talk of the Pennsylvania delegation pretending to be for Mellon. The Curtis delegation will be really for Hoover and the Ohio one for the program. Big Bill will be open to negotiations. Mellon would rather be for Hughes, but will prefer Hoover to Dawes. So the third group, unless it gets larger and more important, is likely to disappear.

THEN the line-up comes between Hoover and Dawes, plus whatever the usual convention manipulators have up their sleeves. In the absence of Hughes, New York and Pennsylvania will be likely to be for Hoover, either from the start or a little later. New England will be mostly for him. So will all of the South in which the people have any voice. What will become of the kept delegations of the states which have no Republican party to represent remains to be seen. The West will be for Hoover. The Middle West will be divided, with Hoover carrying Michigan and being the residuary of Kansas, and with a good chance in a number of other states. The others will either concentrate on Dawes or divide between Lowden or Dawes and radical.

THUS, on the mathematics of it, it means Hoover. On the logic of events, on the popular will, and on the real needs of the situation, it has of course meant Hoover all along. The encouraging thing is that the artificial chessboard of convention politics is thus early showing a correspondence in its moves to the natural drift of public sentiment. That does not always happen. Sometimes, indeed, they are exactly opposite. Then, if the chess players dare, and are able and obstinate enough, they win. This year they will scarcely dare, and the ablest and stubbornest of their former leaders are fortunately dead or decrepit.

Autumn Leaves

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

BEFORE the leaves are all gone, don't fail to treat yourselves and the children to a walk in the woods. If no Little People live with you, borrow some and make them happy. It's such a glorious experience to see the leaves falling, and to scuff one's feet in their crispy fragrance. It's a good time to explain to the children how beautifully Nature plans and uses everything. The leaves have done their work for the trees and bushes. Plants will rest a season now, so the sap recedes into the roots to be stored till spring, and the leaves become dry. As the leaves change color from lack of sap and from the frost, they loosen their hold and fall off, only to form a warm, protective blanket for the leafy buds that plant. In months to come the leaves decay and enrich the earth so that more beautiful trees and flowers can grow.
